(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.

A new survey of the waterway outlet from Pittsburgh to the Great Lakes via the Beaver River through Youngstown to Ashtabula, known as Route No. 1 has been authorized by the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board of Pennsylvania, it was learned today.

The survey is to be conducted by the Randolph Perkins Company of Chicago. The work will be completed in time for a report to congress when it convenes in December. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, representing the company, told the board.

In taking steps to push the survey, the board expressed itself as favoring the route No. 1 outlet as compared with other proposed routes.

Drop Allegheny Canal Talk

KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 23.—Discussion of the proposed Pittsburgh to Lake Erie Canal has been dropped from the program of the meeting and observation trip of the Allegheny River Improvement Association tomorrow. J. Frank Tilley of Pittsburgh, secretary, announced today.

Exclusion of the canal discussion was decided upon because two other organizations will join in the meeting tomorrow and because the Allegheny Association is not primarily interested in the canal, Tilley said. The Kiskiminetas and Conemaugh Rivers Improvement Association, comprising East Brady and Oil City, will join the Allegheny group in its trip by boat from Freeport to Kittanning.

Congressman N. L. Strong will speak to the three associations.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Deeply absorbed in a game of chess, two boys were sitting on the curbstone at a north hill street intersection when Pa New passed at a late hour last night. They were using the corner light to see by.

There's a group of lassies who work in a local plant from morning to night in overalls. They trek out of their working place en masse in the late afternoon, overalls and all.

Swimming came back into popularity again last night, so hot was Old Sol's rays. Out along the Neshannock a beach took on the appearance of a scorching July day.
If it keeps up there'll be crowds there every night.

Bankers and farmers benefit from the experience of these annual farm observation trips of the Lawrence County Bankers' association, for it's a way the banker learns the farmer's troubles and vice versa.
This year's tour takes place Thursday. It promises to attract more interest than ever.

It's surprising how many east
siders walk the "dug out" route, near Croton avenue, on coming to and returning from town.

Akron Is Scheduled To Fly Late Today

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
AKRON, O., Sept. 23.—The United States Airship Akron, the navy's new queen of the skies, will make her maiden flight this afternoon.
The giant ship is expected to take to the air shortly after three p. m.
(E. S. T.)

Definite announcement that the first test flight of the world's largest dirigible would be made today came from navy and Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation officials this morning after weather experts had poured over reports all night and found conditions satisfactory for the trip.

With fuel aboard since last week,
The Akron herself was in complete readiness for the trip. She strained eagerly at her massive 75-ton mooring mast inside the dock.
After she is backed out of the air-dock, The Akron will be cut free from the mobile mast and allowed to float upward for 300 feet as a free balloon. Two engines then will be cut in and the ship will start away with the wind on a triangular course, the direction of which was to be determined later today.

Hunt Lunatic For Murder Of Collings

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 23.—
District Attorney Alexander G. Blue announced today that the entire investigation into the murder of Benjamin P. Collings aboard his yacht, The Penguin, centers around the attempt of the police to capture a lu-matic who is familiar with the waters of Long Island Sound and who recently was paroled from an institution in New York.

Virtually all other clues have been discarded.
Search is also being made for three young men, known to have been associated with paranoic, the latter is "about forty-five years old."

Blue refused to name the man.
He said the lunatic roughly answered the description of the man, who, with a youthful companion, boarded the Collings' cabin cruiser in the sound on the night of September 8th, threw Collings overboard to drown after beating him and then kidnapped his wife in a canoe, leaving the couple's child alone on the drifting Penguin.
"The clue looks good," said District Attorney Blue. "But I do not want to say it will lead to the solution of the case. It may collapse like other clues have but I will say it is of sufficient importance to warrant an intensive search."

Death Of School Girl Is Probed

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Maryland Driver Of Car In Accident

EYE WITNESSES
TELL OF MISHAP

That the unfortunate accident of last Monday afternoon, which resulted in the death of Josephine Favorito, twelve year old, Union township school girl, was an unavoidable accident, in which the driver of the car, Selma C. Fox of Arnold, Maryland, was in no way to blame, was embodied in the verdict rendered Tuesday afternoon at the inquest held in the office of Alderman L. C. Manitz with Coroner
J. P. Caldwell presiding.

The verdict rendered was as follows:

"We, the jury, find that Josephine Favorito of Union township, came to her death, Monday, September 21, 1931 in Jameson Memorial Hospital as a result of injuries sustained about 4:30 p. m., the same date on the Youngstown-New Castle road opposite the Emery home, Union Township, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, when struck by the car of John A. Fox of Arnold, Maryland, while being operated by Selma C. Fox, a daughter of the owner, and we believe that the accident that caused the death of Josephine Favorito was unavoidable."

Questioning of the several witnesses in the case was conducted by Coroner J. P. Caldwell and attorneys representing the family of the dead girl and the owners of the machine.

Sarko First Witness
State Highway Patrolman M. P.
Sarko was the first of the witnesses examined. He stated that the accident occurred about 4:30 p. m.
Monday. He learned of it as he returned to the Colonial Hotel for his supper after patrolling the Harlansburg road. He had gone to the Union Township High School and been informed that Josephine Fav-orito had been injured by "the car driven by Selma C. Fox of Arnold, Maryland. He went to the city building where he found the members of the Fox family and questioned them.
He learned that several children had gotten off the Union Township bus at the scene of the accident and

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—

Five of the nation's biggest industrial corporations will put into effect wage and sal-

Senator Reed Says Site Decision Near

Action on the selection of the New Castle Postoffice site seems to be within a few days, judging from the tone of a telegram received last Tuesday night by Emmanuel Shenkin, president of the Better Business Bureau, from United States Senator David A. Reed.

The wire follows:
Emmanuel Shenkin, president
Better Business Bureau,
New Castle, Pa.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Health tells me that the Interdepartmental Committee probably will decide on the New Castle site this week.

I have urged immediate action and think you can count on a decision in the next day or two.
I have also asked Treasury Department to appoint architect as soon as the site is selected and proceed at once with the plans for the new building.
D. A. REED, U. S. S.

This may mean that the site will be selected on Thursday or Friday.
If it is, it will settle the uncertainty which has surrounded the selection of a postoffice site here and make very sure that the appropriation of $25,000 for a New Castle office will not lapse when the new Congress goes into session in December.

Berry Named Commander Of Gaston Post

Local Attorney Is Named To Head American Legion
During Coming Year

J. Glenn Berry, an attorney-at-law, was named Commander of the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, at their annual election meeting in the Legion Home last evening.
Berry will succeed Guy J. Wadlinger.

The other nominees who were named at the meeting two weeks ago were all elected to office in a meeting which was devoid of interest, most of the active members of the post being in attendance at the National convention in Detroit, which opened Monday.

Those who were elected to fill the other position of the post were the following:

Senior Vice Commander—James
C. Brice.
Junior Vice Commander—Tom Edmonds.
Historian—Harold Blewett.
Finance Officer—John D. Kennedy.
Chaplain—Earl Emerick.
Sergeant at Arms—E. T. McKee.
Trustee—Guy J. Wadling.

There was no other business of importance to transact and in view of the absence of most of the officers of the post, the meeting adjourned early.

Testing Water In Shenango River

State Experts Here To Determine Effect Of Pymatun-ing Dam On River

The State Department of Health has established a station at the laboratory of the New Castle Water Company, and installed some equipment, together with a corps of chemist and inspectors.

The purpose is to make a complete study of river conditions, especially with reference to the oxygen demand in the river water, in order to determine in advance, what probable influence the operation of the new Pymatuning Dam will have on the character of the water in the stream.

The checks made by the state chemist on the raw water will be balanced up daily against the oxygen results at the Water Works, so that complete data will be obtained.

The New Castle Water Company has granted the state the use of the Water Company laboratory and equipment, and will co-operate with their staff, because the information will be mutually valuable. The New Castle Water Company is recognized as having the most complete records of conditions on the Shenango river.

The state chemist located here is
S. W. Long.
In addition there is a travelling truck laboratory which is taking samples on the river from Greenville down.

Warn Farmers Against Frauds

B. J. Watkins of the City Rescue Mission has had some occurrences happen in the past week that he wishes to warn the farmers about.

It seems the Mission folks have taken people out to the farm to get fruit free, and then later these same persons return for products without the sanction of the mission and sometimes use the fruit for other purposes than the aid of the needy.

Mr. Watkins asks the farming for free products either have an order from the Mission or some one from there with them.

Site Selection Likely This Week Telegrams Say

LETTER RECEIVED FROM WHITE HOUSE

Believe Treasury Depart-

U. S. Senator David A.
Reed and Congressman J.
Howard Swick have notified
Mayor William H. Gillespie that property-owners, petitioners and citizens can expect their cooperation in the request that the U. S. Government secure a site immediately and start construction of a postoffice as soon as possible. Telegrams conveying the foregoing information to the city's chief executive were received here last night.

The mayor also announced receipt of a letter from today from Lawrence Richey, secretary to the president. It conveyed the information that the resolution had been received from Mayor Gillespie and Mr.
Shenkin the White House and by direction of President Hoover, Richey had forwarded the resolution for consideration of the officials of the Treasury department.
The telegram from Congressman
J. Howard Swick to Mayor Gillespie reads:

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Ac-

Plant Is Nearly Ready To Start

Westmoreland Products Company Plant Here Ready To Start

Production in the Westmoreland Products Company is expected to start sometime between the first and fifteenth of October according to Arthur M. Brown, one of the owners of the plant. Extensive improvements in the way of machinery and equipment have been made and Dr.
Matthew Butler, who is in charge of the plant is about ready to start production.

For a time iron oxide and iron sulphate will be manufactured with later on Prussian Blue, one of the products. Because of the proximity of New Castle to the Cleveland and Akron markets it is expected that there will be considerable demand for the product of the plant.

The crops are in and the work

it's neat and clean out in the old an autumn wish, and so I guess he'll be starting soon for a place where there's lots of fish. It's far away on a placid lake, where the world seems peaceful and slow, where it won't be long till the lake is frozen and the country covered there'll be lots of fish and he'll soon

DETROIT IS OVER-AWED BY LEGION PAGEANT

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Sept. 23.—An awe-stricken city slowly recovered today from its amazement at the magnificent spectacle staged by the American Legion when 110,000 World War veterans marched before a crowd of 1,500,000 citizens in a parade that required eight hours to pass a given point.

The spectacle literally shocked Detroit, far exceeding any other spectacle in its history. There were far more veterans in line here than ever before in the legion's history.

One of the records set for Detroit was in the number of casualties.
Hospitals and first aid stations reported having treated 2,000 cases, only a few of which were serious.
Most of the stricken suffered from heat prostration or exhaustion.

Canal Boosters To Attend Ohio Valley Meeting

Auto Caravan Is Being Formed To Attend Meet-
In Charleston,
W. Va.

EXPECT SEVERAL FROM NEW CASTLE

Plans are being made to send several local river improvement boosters to the meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, which will be held in Charleston, W. Va., during the early part of October.

The convention dates have been set as of October 5 and 6, but an invitation was recently extended to President Hoover to attend, and his acceptance may mean a change in the date.

It is expected to send about 50 river boosters from the Mahoning and Shenango valleys to the meeting.

Reservations have already been made by a large number from Youngstown, Warren, Sharon, Greenville and other cities along the Mahoning and Shenango rivers. They will form an auto caravan to the West Virginia city, although some will likely leave by train.

table for the year 1891 has been uncovered by George W. Thomas, Logan street. It was displayed to Pennsylvania at E. A. headquarters here. The division was called the Erie & Pittsburgh then, and central standard time was used. Joseph Wood was general manager at Pittsburgh at the time.

New Castle school kiddies were given a little respite from the heat yesterday when the schools were dismissed an hour early. The hot weather has worked a hardship on the teachers and students.

Fall flowers are at their prettiest right now, some gorgeous gardens having been noted in various parts of the city by Pa. New. The dahlias are especially beautiful, although all vegetation needs rain badly.

The temperature got back down to near what it should be for this time of the year last night, and although the days may continue to be warm, it is believed that the nights will be cooler.

New Castle with a wide section of the Eastern United States is sweltering through the hottest September on record.

Pa. New believes that it would be a fine thing for the city street department to continue the street facing from Neshannock avenue up Rural avenue to Park avenue. The work done on Neshannock avenue seems to be a fine improvement. If Rural avenue could be placed in a permanently improved condition and widened a little it would be one of the most travelled thoroughfares on the north hill.

Opening of North Mercer street from the George Washington Junior high school to the city line, through the co-operation of the city and Neshannock township, has provided a new thoroughfare on the hill that is being much travelled.

The one block section of North Mercer street, between Euclid avenue and Sheridan avenue, however, is as rough a piece of road as can be found anywhere. This little stretch which is in the township needs some attention.

Asleep! before the steps of an East street business establishment this morning was a carefree white dog, none the bit bothered by pedestrians who had to walk around him. Bet the shop proprietor didn't see him.

Avenue Eyelights: A man interested primarily in locating that water testing laboratory truck of the state, asking for its whereabouts... East Washington street walkers peering wonderingly into the peculiarly-formed wooden forms for the cement railings of the rebuilt bridge... A man, supposedly a swimmer, venturing his opinion that "dog days" might still be in effect, and he was in doubt as to whether or not he would go bathing now... And storm-battered letters reading "Red Onion" over what was a famous old-time saloon along Mahoning avenue.

It did not take long for U. S. Senator David A. Reed, Congressman J. Howard Swick and Lawrence Richey, secretary to the president, to return to this city relative to the proposed postoffice situation. The resolutions were telegraphed to the government officials and early action seems probable.

Carl Shaner, manager of Cascade Park, is continuing efforts to obtain rail service direct into the park next summer. He is communicating with various railroad companies. Sometime ago it was reported that unless this was secured the park might be abandoned.

1-That posts immediately contact existing agencies in their own communities, and if no proper agencies exist, join with other elements of the community to establish an agency for the proper registration and placement of the unemployed.

2-Prevent migration, adversity is alleviated and overcome in one's home town rather than in strange or foreign surroundings.

3-Make work wherever possible create work instead of direct relief to hold up the morale and courage and pride of our people.

4-Create public sentiment that will release to the building trade public improvements of federal, state and local character go the end that work will be available to the unemployed, and as far as possible hire workers in their own communities.

5-It was the consensus of the Washington committee that they recommend to the posts that they urge their own communities to assume as far as possible the problem that is local and county and state likewise.

6-We recommend to employers and employed the consideration of the 5 day week and the 6 hour day. 7-As their real program has just been inaugurated, it is recommended that the national employment commission be continued. Appointments to be made by the next elected national commander.

8-Your committee affirms its confidence in the soundness of the Legion program for needed public works to relieve unemployment. Cities and states representing every section of the country reported at the Washington conference temporary problems by carefully planned public works programs.

9-Your commission recommends to the Americanism commission consideration further restriction if immigration during the present emergency to offer more employment of American citizens.

that Josephine Favorito had gone to the rear of the bus and attempted to cross the roadway and the Fox car struck her. She had been taken to the Jameson Memorial Hospital when he arrived at the scene.

It was a regular bus stop, he was informed and the accident occurred about an eighth of a mile west of the Bradford airport. The bus had stopped on the right side of the road about opposite the Emery home.

Using a steel tape line and the information as to location as given him by Helen Emery, an eye-witness, he had found that the accident victim had been carried by the automobile for sixty feet until she fell to the side of the road on the opposite side of the road from which she had left the bus. From the time the girl was struck until the automobile was stopped was approximately 190 feet, he stated.

His investigation revealed the fact that the car was licensed to John A. Fox, of Arnold, Maryland, and Miss Fox had an operator's license issued by the state of Maryland. There had been four occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, Miss Selma C. Fox, the daughter and Carroll Fox, a son of the owner.

Driver Testifies

Floyd Geiger, driver of the school bus, stated that he was a teacher in Union Township High School and also drove the children to and from school in the township bus. They left the school about 4 p. m. There were 34 children in the bus. There had been no stops previous to that at which the accident occurred. He had stopped at the designated place with two of the wheels off the concrete at least eighteen inches, and on the right hand side of the road. The bus, he stated is owned by the township. There are signs on the sides and rear designating its purpose. It is 92 inches in width. He said that the students had been instructed different times to remain standing on the right hand side of the road until the bus had gone on before crossing. There was plenty of room at the place of the accident, he stated for all to stand. He saw the car coming around the bend at top of Harbor Hill five hundred feet away but had not watched it as he was watching the children getting off.

He heard a slight impact when the accident occurred, he stated. The bus was still standing still, he stated. The bus has two doors, one at the right hand front side and one at the rear. Only the front one was used in discharging passengers. Five got off at the stop. There are ordinarily nine but some had stayed to play football.

He got out after hearing the impact and the little girl was lying in the roadway, about fifty feet in the rear of the bus. The car stopped about eighty to eighty-five feet behind the child. He then told of the girl being carried to the Emery home and men of the Bell Telephone company giving first aid treatment. Her two sisters and mother arrived and they with the injured child were taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

The victim of the accident had been one of the first off. He had not seen the actual accident.

Miss Emery Testifies.

Miss Helen Emery told of being on the front porch of her home and watching toward New Castle for the bus. She saw the children get off. She saw the boys to the side wrestling.

The accident victim had come to the back of the car and to the edge next the roadway. The girl saw a car coming from the direction of New Castle, and darted out and was struck by the Fox car coming in the opposite direction, almost instantly.

It was her opinion that the bumper of the Fox car hit her and kept knocking her feet out from under her for some distance until she was thrown in some ashes at the side of the road. It seemed to her that the fender kept pushing the girl. The girl did not scream. She had heard no horn. She had seen the car coming from the direction of New Castle but had not seen the Fox car coming from the direction of the Harbor.

Josephine Favorito had not been the first off the bus but had been the first around the corner of the bus. She was of the opinion that the victim of the accident had not looked to the right toward the rear of the Fox car. She had been in and out of the house following the accident and saw the accident victim placed in the ambulance and taken away. The state highway patrolman had not arrived there until about 9:30 p. m.

School Mate's Story.

Margaret McConahy told of being in the bus. Josephine had gotten off ahead of her and was ahead of her as they went to the rear of the bus and around its end. She was about a foot behind. Josephine had stopped at corner of bus and looked up the road, toward New Castle. She then ran to cross the road and she saw her struck by the car. Josephine had to go down or toward the direction of the Harbor bridge to go home. She was up beside her and saw the car coming from New Castle. As she started, Margaret had also started.

She was of the opinion that Josephine was half way across when struck. She had heard no horn. The engine of the bus was running all the time.

Saw The Accident.

David Llewellyn of English avenue, was enroute to Youngstown behind the bus when the accident occurred. He was some distance behind as it stopped and he saw the children go to the back of the bus. He then noticed the Fox machine and blew his horn to warn the children. Two other girls went back but Josephine shot out across the road. She was almost across when hit. He was of the opinion that either attempted to or did actually grab the bumper of the car.

He was almost up to the bus when the accident occurred. The bus had started out and gone twenty or thirty feet when the accident occurred. The Fox car slowed up and went into the Emery gasoline station.

Miss Fox Is Heard.

Miss Selma C. Fox, driver of the car that hit the girl then testified. They were enroute from Youngstown to New Castle. Her father was in the front seat beside her. She saw and recognized the bus as a school bus. Her brother had called her attention to it also. She slowed up and started to blow her horn. They had just reached the edge of the bus, when the girl darted across the road. She swerved to the left to avoid the girl if possible and the bumper hit her. She did not see the girl until she was but three or five feet from her machine.

She had been driving thirty miles an hour until she saw the bus and had then lessened her speed. She was probably going twenty-five miles an hour when the car struck the girl. She saw the children get off the bus. She was as close as possible to her side of the concrete. The girl was looking straight ahead.

Girl's Sister Testifies.

Susie Favorito, sister of the accident victim, told of being on the bus and getting off behind her sister. Her sister disappeared all of a sudden and she did not see her hit. John Fox, owner of the car, was then called and corroborated all the statements of his daughter relative to speed, the blowing of the horn. He was of the opinion that the girl was hit by about the center of the car. He got out when the car stopped and ran back to the child and helped Mr. Llewellyn carry the girl to the Emery property under a tree.

Mrs. John Fox was in the rear seat, she stated and saw the school bus. Her son had called attention to the bus and her daughter blew the horn. The girl had come in front of them just like a flash.

Carroll Fox corroborated the statements of the others in every detail. This ended the testimony and the jury then returned the verdict.

Hunt For Cramer Being Continued

Faint Spark Of Hope Left
That Parker Cramer
And Companion Will Be Found

FISHING VESSELS ARE ON LOOKOUT

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A faint spark of hope that Parker D. Cramer and Oliver Paquette, ocean fliers lost on the last lap of a flight from the United States to Europe across the Arctic waters, may be alive was revived today when the American Embassy in London telegraphed the town of Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, requesting all fishing vessels to keep a sharp watch for the airmen.

First indication that American authorities here believed there was a possibility the fliers might still be alive despite the finding of their wrecked seaplane at sea came last night when the British broadcasting company sent out a nationwide appeal at the request of the Embassy.

Name Receiver For Plate Glass Firm

M. L. Peterson, Kane, Named Receiver For American Plate Glass Company

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—M. L. Peterson of Kane, Pa., today was named receiver for the American Plate Glass Corporation, of Kane, Pa., by Judge Nelson McVicar, in federal court.

Appointment of the receiver followed the filing of two equity suits against the Glass corporation. One was filed by Norman D. Mowells and D. V. Grossmire, insurance agents, and the other by the Kane Bank and Trust Company, of Kane, Pa. Bond in the insurance suit was set at $5,000 and in the bank suit at $15,000.

The American Plate Glass Corporation, which operates plants in Elk and McKean counties, holds properties valued at $2,000,000 for which the Kane bank is trustee under a trust mortgage agreement, the bank in 1930 requested the redemption of $1,500,000 in bonds, outstanding at that time. The company defaulted and ceased operations last April, the bank averred in its suit.

Mowells and Grossmire alleged in their bill of complaint that the Glass company owed them $4,000 for insurance policies.

SITE SELECTION LIKELY THIS WEEK TELEGRAMS SAY

and have reason to believe that decision will be reached within a day or two. I will keep the subject actively before Assistant Secretary Heath and Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Philip Smith until site is chosen then will see that architect is appointed at once and that there is no unnecessary delay in getting a building started.

From White House
Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover wrote Mayor Gillespie as follows:

The White House
Washington,
September 22, 1937

My dear Mr. Gillespie:
The telegram from yourself and Mr. Emanuel Shenkin, President, Better Business Bureau, conveying the resolution adopted by the meeting of property-owners of New Castle, regarding the site for a Postoffice building in that city has been received, and by direction of the President is being referred for the consideration of the officials of the Treasury department.

Sincerely Yours,
LAWRENCE RICHEY,
Secretary to the President.
Hon. W. H. Gillespie, Mayor,
New Castle, Pa.

Result Of Meetings

The telegrams and letters are the outcome of two meetings held here Monday. They were called at the behest of the Better Business Bureau, the report having reached the bureau officials that unless contention among site-owners and petitioners was wiped out it was probable that the government would not pick a site. It was feared if no site were selected before congress reconvened, the appropriation of $525,000 would be cut off.

Property-owners and representatives collected Monday and at the morning meeting Mayor Gillespie presiding as chairman. He explained the situation and it was decided by property-owners they would agree to any site that the government selected. At the night meeting, Emanuel Shenkin was the presiding officer, and petitioners agreed likewise. A committee telegraphed the harmonious resolutions to U. S. Senator Reed, Congressman Swick and President Hoover.

The inter-departmental committee met yesterday, according to Congressman Swick. So far the result of the session has not been learned.

If a site is picked immediately, it is reported about four weeks would be necessary to look up the title and the site could then be cleared off. It is expected that once this is over actual construction on the new postoffice building would get under way by spring, thus giving employment to many men who are now idle.

BIG INDUSTRIES ANNOUNCE WAGE AND SALARY CUTS

Industry in all would probably be reduced about $75,000,000.

The hourly wage rate of General Motors corporation will be unchanged, president, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., said.

Right Procedure.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23.—Steel industrial leaders in Cleveland today placed their stamp of endorsement on the action of the United States Steel corporation and other leading steel companies of the country in reducing wages ten per cent.

E. J. Kulas, president of Otis Steel company, stated that he believed the U. S. Steel corporation "had done the right thing. In our case we doubtless will have to follow."

W. C. Mathie, president of Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, said he believed the independents will follow the lead of the U. S. Steel in reducing wages. A similar reduction by all steel companies would be logical, he said.

"A further reduction will be necessary unless business is willing to pay a fair price for steel productions," Kulas said.

At Jones & Laughlin.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, largest independent producer in the Pittsburgh district, today announced that on October 1 wages of all employees would be reduced by approximately 10 per cent.

The proposed wage cut, in line with those announced by the United States Steel corporation and other large companies, will affect 20,000 employees of the company, Jones & Laughlin officials stated.

The action was taken today at a meeting of the executives of the company in Pittsburgh. No new scale of wages has yet been set up, it was said.

Officials of the company said the action was found necessary in view of present industrial conditions and to equalize the handicap resulting from the action of other companies in lowering production costs by decreasing wages.

The Quota Club members met Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. for the regular dinner event, with a large number being in attendance.

After partaking of a delicious menu, their guest speaker, William McElwee, state legislator, of New Wilmington, was introduced. He gave a most interesting talk on the "Constitution" that was well received.

After a short discussion and social period, the meeting adjourned. In two weeks, the Quota members will be dinner guests of the New Wilmington girls at a tea room there.

Cable Brings News Of Father's Death

A. J. Goldman, Winter Avenue, Gets Word From Far Off African City

Word of the death of Julius Goldman, 69-year-old father of A. J. Goldman, Winter avenue, manager of a travel department in a local bank, came in a cable message received early this week from Johannesburg, South Africa, nearly 10,000 miles away.

Mr. Goldman's father, active in business enterprises in the far off city, was a frequent visitor here. However, most of his time was spent in the African city.

The son cabled back for more information yesterday but no answer had reached him today.

According to Mr. Goldman, his father had written a letter about six weeks ago. Since that time no word came, except for the message which conveyed the news of his death this week.

Whether or not any of the Goldman family in the states will go to the distant city to handle burial and business arrangements was not known today.

MEETING THE HOSPITAL DEFICIT

CERTAINLY the attitude and action of the hundred or more employees of the Jameson Memorial hospital in contributing something over $25,000 a year in the way of reduction of salaries, increased work, and other economies is a magnificent and commendable move.

It reveals the stirring conception of duty on their part, and fine co-operation in behalf of the institution, which is more than a challenge to the people of the community—it is a graphic presentation in the most emphatic terms of the fact that the people of New Castle and Lawrence county have not been supporting this magnificent institution as they should.

Given one of the finest hospital institutions in the country, completely equipped, and in every way up to the minute, the people of this community seem to have largely taken for granted that the institution would need little further community interest.

Which is very much a mistake. Hospitals are seldom self sustaining. Only in the case of institutions adequately endowed is such the case. It is to be hoped that the situation disclosed in the action of the employees will impress upon each one of us that this community institution is one entitled to far more support than it has heretofore been given, and serve to awaken this community to the situation.

A SHAMEFUL WASTE

Losses by fire in Pennsylvania last year reached a total of $25,000,000. These are figures gathered by the Bureau of Fire Protection.

Moreover, 82 per cent of the fires were preventable, a tragic commentary on human neglect. Civilization in spite of its vaunted progress has not yet solved some of its major problems—foremost among them the doing away with criminal carelessness. Think of what $25,000,000 would do for Pennsylvania at this time—the $25,000,000 that went up in flames and smoke in 1930!

The fire-prevention problem parallels that of motor-car accident prevention. If we could solve these two, we should be far on the way to making this modern social and economic system of ours the kind it ought to be. It would still be infinitely far from 100 per cent excellent, but a vast improvement would be achieved.

EARTHQUAKE IN OHIO AND INDIANA

A few years ago New England and Quebec suffered a series of minor seismic disturbances which attracted considerable notice chiefly on account of their novelty. Quakes of any marked severity seldom occur in that region, though the presence of certain well-defined geological faults suggest there is always a possibility. Because the sections are populous a slight tremor is likely to receive undue notice. Perhaps the situation is somewhat similar in the Ohio Valley. For more than a hundred years geologic readjustments have been taking place in the Middle West. The one reported Sunday in a dozen villages and cities of Western Ohio and Eastern Indiana emitted the most pronounced shocks experienced there since 1811, though the damage was not great. These occasional happenings in the Appalachian area and along the North Atlantic seaboard may offer safety valves for escape from such a fatal disaster as visited Japan two or three hours after the manifestations in Ohio.

Evidently the severity of earthquakes depends on local factors no less than on the power behind the impulse. Government experts have lately been studying the velocity of earthquake waves in several kinds of granite and related problems. Conditions favorable for these tests are found in the Yosemite Valley. The desired vibrations are produced artificially by dynamite explosions in connection with the blasting of a tunnel on the Wawona Highway under the cliffs east of Bridal Veil Falls.

The fruits of these experiments can probably have little value in a terrain differing so radically from the geologic formation of the Yosemite as the Ohio Valley. Nevertheless it is worth knowing that the Department of the Interior is devoting its facilities to tests which throw light on a mystery always baffling to man. There is no human hope of preventing earthquakes, but the damage resulting from them can be reduced if we are able to predict their occurrence.

COMMON SENSE NEEDED

It is unfortunate that a grave unemployment problem confronts the country coincident with the approach of national political campaigns. We could see either situation more clearly if the other were not involved. It seems strange that the matter of creating employment and the methods of raising funds for the needy should have already become the subjects for bitter party controversy. We hear the Hoover plan denounced by the Democrats and the Roosevelt plan extolled. Senators, congressmen and governors have numerous plans of their own. Candidates for national and state offices are crowding to the front with eagerness to tell what they think should be done. It is disconcerting to reflect that under such circumstances much will be done that should not be done and much will not be done that should be done. All the good common sense of Main Street, America, will be needed to calm the hysterical, muffle the demagogues and see that the money goes to the right spots. And it should be remembered that whatever the money comes from direct taxation or is taken from the taxpayers' money in the United States treasury the folk on Main Street and the farm families in Peaceful Valley are going to foot a big share of the bill. Congress cannot assume the virtue of generosity, because all money it appropriates is Tom's, Dick's, and Harry's money, and Tom, Dick and Harry will not glow in spirit over political gestures disguised as shaken sobs for the poor. It would be a blessing if this whole business could be divorced from politics.

On the other hand, there already are foolish proposals for economy. We must economize, but we must go ahead with our work and our play and that will involve some spending. We need not sacrifice our national defenses. We need not wear the straw hat of 1928. We need not get buck fever. We need not indulge in an orgy of thrift. That would be bad for the unemployed.

We must not assume that all unemployed want to go to work. The relief chests should be open only to those who, needing work, will accept in this emergency any honest work that is available. It may be necessary for the unemployed clerk to mow a lawn or two, or wash windows, or drive a truck. If he rejects any job and still asks relief, he will only increase the difficulties of the unemployed who would work if they could get work to do.

The American spirit will meet next winter's emergency. Millions will make a just demand upon us. We shall accomplish the job better and with more mutual respect if we join hands and treat it as a self-effacement and common everyday American sense.—The Rockford Register-Republic.

Among the poor creatures who never get a square meal are those who think a chocolate soda is virtuous.

Who Are You?
I Say I Know You
That's Ridiculous

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Somebody says, "I want you to know my friend, Johnny Jones."

You look up and you smile. I smile, too. We grip hands. I say I am glad to know you. You say you are glad to know me. You look me over and I look at you—at your eyes, at your nose, at your mouth. As I look, I have a feeling about you, as you, perhaps, have a feeling about me. We put each other on trial. We are attracted or we are repelled. We'd like to see each other again, or we don't care if we never see each other this side of eternity. . . . I know more about how I feel about you than I know about how you feel about me. I wonder what you think, but I can't know! That's your private affair, not mine, and I cannot question you too closely. I cannot ask, "Do you like me?" You would not ask if I liked you. It would be embarrassing.

We say goodbye. . . . And when three days later, someone asks me if I know Johnny Jones, I say yes, that I do. I know you. . . . And that's a presumptuous thing for me to say. Because how can I say that I know you? I have met you and I know your name; you're the fellow with the red hair and the easy smile, but just how much do I know YOU? I might speak to you for years and never know you at all. And WHEN shall I ever know the you that you know best of all?

What is behind you in the multitudinous years that stretch to the beginning of things, to the savage gnawing on a bone, to the cave man on his rock, to the protoplasm—perhaps—in the stagnant pool?

And what's behind you, in your cradle, in your stumbling days, in your childhood? What has made you happy and what has bruised you and what has made you what you are?

What have you dreamed and what have you fought for? What have you gained and what have you weariedly resigned? What made you strong and what made you weak? What gave you the ideas you hold about life, about men, about women, about work and pleasure and pain? . . . I do not know and you, it's likely I do not know, know either.

And yet, I say I know you. So simply, so casually, I tell people that I know Johnny Jones. That's impudence for you—for me to say that I know YOU; . . . I may like you, I may, even curiously enough, dislike you. But can I ever, in all this tumultuous and distracting business of life, ever get to KNOW YOU?

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

HOW CAN YOU JUDGE?

You may have been lucky all your life to have good health.

Well and strong yourself you have little sympathy for the weak or ill.

You believe that most of their ailments are imaginary and that they complain about bad feelings that you would not think of mentioning.

How can you judge of the severity of another person's illness or pain? They are not clearly much to be pitied upon which to base your judgment, hence you are unjust.

Truly, some folk magnify their sufferings both physical and mental but a really hard attack of smart twinges might make you more sympathetic and a better judge of the suffering of others.

There are some who complain incessantly and in much can be done for them because they are chronic grumblers.

There are others who really do suffer all the time and not much can be done for them but try to get them to exercise self control.

To treat severe suffering lightly and unsympathetically is unkind.

To try to divert the one who is in pain while you are working to lessen the suffering is a gracious tenderness that the ailing learn to appreciate.

How do you treat the ill people in your home?

Newton D. Baker Discussed As Presidential Candidate

Editorial Poll Puts Him Strongly In Race For Democratic Nomination And Focuses Public Attention On His Achievements And Policies

As a result of the poll recently conducted by the Outlook and Independent among the Democratic editors of the country, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet, is thrown into the public eye as the choice second only to Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. Many papers are asking, "What does the poll mean?" and are finding the answer to be that the Baker candidacy is assuming a strength that cannot be ignored. In the resultant discussion of the man himself, he is credited with political and administrative capacity and popular policies.

If the Outlook poll means anything at all, it means the bringing of the name of Newton D. Baker before the country for serious consideration. The ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS says: "If the Roosevelt wave fails to gain momentum, Newton Baker's name will inevitably be the most debated." This paper thinks "his strength in view of his utter lack of effort to secure strength is a factor that Democratic leaders in the various States cannot afford entirely to ignore." As the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR puts it: "The poll of the editors throws the spotlight on Newton D. Baker. Mr. Baker has generally been conceded to be the most likely selection of the Democrats for the nomination in the event Roosevelt does not get it." The Star describes Mr. Baker as being rated "a man of great personal ability, of the type of the late President Wilson."

That many of the Democratic editors polled "believe that Newton D. Baker is the intellectual leader of their party" is stressed by the DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT AND LEADER. Discussing the "ablest candidate" available to the party, the CHARTER POST says: "Newton Baker comes nearer to qualifying for that distinction than any other man who has been prominently considered. Mr. Baker would make a great president. He would make a great candidate, too. As the CHATTANOOGA NEWS analyzes his character, he is an idealist, an uncompromising friend of Wilson policies, and an ardent League of Nations supporter. Mr. Baker's attitude on domestic questions remains to be more clearly defined."

His friends and his foes alike can say that he thinks for himself, and that, we imagine, accounts for his popularity with the editors.

In the opinion of the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, Roosevelt and Baker seem to be the leading contenders for their party's nomination, with Roosevelt far in the lead, but Baker showing a sudden development of strength that is one of the most unusual things in recent political history. Comparing the two contenders, The Times-STAR says: "Roosevelt bears a historic name, has excellent intentions and good abilities, and has made a pretty good record as governor of the Empire State. Baker is how ever a more brilliant man. He brings into the field the background of a scholar in politics, a mind trained in the law, and as his service first as Mayor of Cleveland and then as Secretary of War proclaims administrative gifts."

"Although Mr. Baker's extensive law practice has been chiefly in connection with some of the great railroads and industrial corporations in the country, he is firmly established in the public mind as a pronounced liberal and his nomination if it should come about, would be looked upon and generally interpreted as a victory for the liberal element in the Democratic party," asserts the ROANOKE TIMES. This according to the NEW YORK TIMES would be "one of the marvels of our modern politics," and this paper thinks it probable that opposition to Governor Roosevelt will center on Mr. Baker, whether he likes it or not.

These facts show that "appreciation of Newton D. Baker has grown steadily since the war," states the LYNCHBURG NEWS, claiming that retirement to private life has not obscured him politically and time has added to, rather than taken from, his reputation as a public official and private citizen."

THE PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN thinks "it will be interesting to note the party reaction to editorial endorsement of the Baker candidacy" with the suggestion: "That candidacy has needed a full opportunity to get it going properly. Possibly this endorsement will accelerate its pace henceforth." This paper states further that "a formidable Baker movement could count at the start on a great deal of support from persons and organizations to whom the former Secretary is not first, or necessarily last, choice."

THE OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES sees strength for Baker in the report that ex-Governor Smith is favorable to him, with the explanation: "Although the Democrats do not want to risk Smith as a nominee again, few will deny he is still a powerful influence in the party, and the rumor that he is favorable to the nomination of Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, gives that Ohio aspirant a new prominence in the pre-convention campaign, which is even now in progress."

THE ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC finds Baker a popular choice among many in the political discussions over the country, which at present inevitably simmer down to one question, the probable choice of the Democratic party for the presidential nomination.

THE HOUSTON CHRONICLE finds "no phenomenon in American politics more astounding than the recent emergence of Newton D. Baker as a presidential possibility."

Mud Puddles

IMPORTANT BAGGAGE

It gets cold, very cold in the Dakotas. It has been always that way in the winter time. The hotels are however more comfortable now than they were forty five years ago, they have steam heat among other improvements. When the following incident occurred the hotel was of the frontier type, so was the town and the railroad was not run with the precision it is run today.

There was a hotel in a little town in North Dakota which was located across the street from the railroad station. It was patronized by what-over traveling men stopped at the town—it was the only hotel in the town. The trains on the railroad were notoriously late, so late in fact that the east bound train due to leave at midnight was usually so late that "mine host" would send his guests down to the depot to wait, and he would be telling them that he would awaken them in time to dress and catch the train when it actually arrived.

And so it happened one night with the thermometer well below zero. About five in the morning the agent for the railroad announced that the train was about to come in from the west. The landlord sent out the hurry up call to his guests and one by one the prospective passengers came out of the hotel in varied conditions of dress and undress, carrying half-closed suit cases in one hand and the remainder of their wearing apparel over the other arm.

The train arrived and was about to leave when, with a muffled shout, a belated one came running across to the train carrying in addition to baggage and coats a water glass.

Putting violently he gained the moving platform of the last car. "What in the name of Horace Greely are you bringing that glass for?" questioned another of the crowd.

"It contains my false teeth frozen solid. Couldn't leave 'em."

THE CARDINAL

A cardinal upon a tree
Carols a joyous song to me

I pause upon my lonely way
To hear his golden roundelay,

I tell myself, he sings as though
My need for comfort he must know;

As if his high place he sees Man's weary spirit ill at ease

And seeks with his melodious song
To cheer the wandered along.

Thinking his music meant for me,
I closer move unto the tree.

But seeing me, to my dismay,
He stops his song and flies away.

Hoping to find, before too late,
A safer place to woo his mate.

Blessings to mortals often fall
That are not meant for them at all.

Legion Delegates Have Quit Parading And Now Commence Their Voting

Today Is Big Day For Legionnaires In Detroit Convention

Portland, Oregon, Will Get Convention In 1932 And Chicago Set For 1933

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Journalist and Radio Reporter
Copyrighted, 1931, By International News Service

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—Hello everybody.

Today is a big day for the American Legionnaires in convention here. Parading is over. Now it's voting. They are under orders to bring home the bacon on one or more issues. Like good soldiers they have started to carry out orders. They have put away their torpedo canes and red fire and there's more jockeying and electioneering than there were band concerts a few days ago.

Telegraph wires have been sizzling with orders not to go back on any instructions. Many of the boys have been going around with long faces because of these orders. But they have bucked up again and are ready to tackle any proposition whether it looks like a sure thing or a sure loser. Orders to stick by, or oppose the bonus and prohibition measures in the Legion program have been especially troublesome. Then when open debate on both subjects was granted by Commander O'Neil there was a sigh of relief. It gave delegates a chance to go on record, win or lose.

Delegates Worried.
When a home town post ordered its delegation to bring back the convention for next year it was a different matter. It was either convention or no convention. No going on record. And it was the same with delegations sent here to have a favorite son elected national commander.

There were many worried Legionnaires over such orders. The field finally narrowed down to nine candidates for commander and their backers refused to quit. They're still running. There are George W. Malone of Nevada, Edgar Dunlap of Georgia, John A. Elden of Ohio, Ray Murphy of Iowa, Emmet O'Neal of Kentucky, Louis Johnson of West Virginia, Henry L. Stephens of North Carolina, Rice W. Means of Colorado, and Wayne C. Holsworth of New York.

Today there's some hot information on the race for commander. It comes right out from under the general's table, as the boys used to say in the army. Wise Legion leaders say it lies between Henry Stephens and Ray Murphy. Both of them are lawyers. Stephens is the youngest candidate in the field.

Portland Next Year.
Electing a new commander is a really Democratic fight. Men who ranked as buck private have just as much to say about it as former brigadier-generals. A mere enlisted man can be commander of a million or more members, as well as one who had an officer's rating. A commander's job is largely an honorary post. He can serve only one term. Has to give up all private business and take a salary that couldn't be called princely.

Incidentally, inside rumors—also "right from under the general's table,"—say that Portland, Oregon, will win, hands down, as the next convention city. Mayor Cornak of Chicago, has been putting up a hard fight. He is to be rewarded with the convention for Chicago in 1933, which is world's fair year there.

Woman Shoots Bedroom Intruder

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 23.—Awakened by a man leaning over her bed, Mrs. Bertha Fisher, 23, reached under her pillow and fired two shots, killing him instantly.

The victim was identified as Franklin Lewis Sweig, 27, a coast-guardman aboard the U. S. S. Destroyer Tucker. Sweig, a native of Nadeau, Mich., recently came here from Boston.

According to police, Mrs. Fisher, whose husband is in the navy and is stationed at present in Norfolk, Va., awoke to see a man, half-dressed, in the bedroom of her apartment. She asked him what he was doing, and when he advanced toward her, she fired.

Sweig had been living with his wife in a small cottage directly in front of that occupied by the Fishers. Mrs. Fisher, mother of a four-year-old boy, said she had never spoken to the man, but after she killed him recognized him.

RECONSTRUCT OLD ALPINE TRAGEDY

VIENNA, Sept. 23.—Examinations of the bodies of Aumand and Inspruck, Austrian national bank inspector and Dr. Koban, former professor at Innsbruck University, which were found last week on Schwanenboden Mountain near Mauthausen, Tyrol, made it possible for authorities to reconstruct the tragedy which cost the men their lives over eleven years ago.

The two men were last seen on Dec. 11, 1919, climbing the mountain toward the Berliner shelter house. The bodies were well preserved when they were found, due to having been buried in the mountain snows. They were discovered by side in a snow-filled cleft. Between them lay a pack of playing cards and the last quarter inch of a burned candle.

The plane, in flames, fell between two houses, setting them on fire and burning to death a woman, one of the occupants. Hall was uninjured.

Frees Prisoner For $400,000 And Promise Of Girl

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—On the promise of $400,000 and the company of a blonde, Corporal Alfred G. Bral freed a prisoner from the disciplinary barracks at Fort Jay.

Army authorities announced that Bral, a veteran of 15 years service and a recipient of several World War decorations, faced court martial for permitting Umberto Bianchi, lawyer and physician, to leave the barracks.

Bianchi, who was serving a term at Sing Sing for forgery, was loaned to the federal officials as a witness in a round-up of alien smugglers. Army officers said Bral confessed that Bianchi gave him $3,000 in cash and an order on the Bank of France for $400,000 more. After Bianchi escaped, Bral was to buy his discharge with the $3,000, go to Paris, draw his money and meet the blonde who would be waiting for him.

Rhodes was shot in the leg and brought to a Gallipolis hospital. Sayre was captured simultaneously. A gang of counterfeiters had been operating in this section for several months changing $2 bills to $20 and the two men were believed by officers to be members of the gang.

Plan Hearing On Gas Protest Soon

Public Service Commission Will Hear Complaints Against Company

GROVE CITY, Sept. 23.—A hearing before the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg will be held in three weeks following the filing of protests on the part of four boroughs against the Union Heat and Light Company.

City Solicitor M. B. Klinesmith wired these facts today to local contestants of the 60 cent service charge and the 65 cent per thousand gas rate charged. The boroughs affected are Grove City, Stoneboro, Sandy Lake and Volant. New Wilmington council also served by the company has not taken formal action. Roy Husselman, evaluation engineer employed, is making ready his appraisal.

TRAINING SCHOOL OPENS

This 1931 opening is the fifth successive year that the school has been operated. The school is for training of teachers and workers in Sunday schools of local churches. The enrollment will be 100.

A faculty of five people will instruct each Tuesday evening. There will be two class periods, at 7 and 8-10 p. m. The fall semester of the school closes December 8th.

RUSH SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Dr. W. C. Ketter has been assured by Contractor R. B. McDonald that the two new college buildings will be completed in time for the dedication of October 8th. Work on both has reached a point where the completion may be assured.

Friends of the school, unable to be here on October 8th will be welcomed on October 10th when they will again be thrown open for inspection.

EXPECT GOOD HUNTING

Sportsmen say that the hunting this fall will be the best of years in the community. This is due to the heavy grain harvest of the summer which has been responsible for increasing the flocks of birds.

Rabbits in quantity are found. Squirrels are said to be more numerous than they have been for years.

PANAMA TO HAVE NEW TOURIST HOTEL

PANAMA, Sept. 23.—Panama City will have a new modern hotel in 1932, according to plans. The barracks are Dr. Belisario Porras, former president of Panama and newly appointed minister to Italy, and Charles and Lamberto Montoya, who have been operating a hotel in Panama for several years.

The hotel will cost $500,000 and it is planned to spend about $375,000 of this sum in the hotel building which will contain 99 rooms, each with a bath. The site selected for the hotel is now occupied by the Moose Club.

Skepticism Expressed Over Vagrancy Law Aimed At Gang Violence

Stewart, Following Legislative Hearing In New York, Concludes Statute May Be Used Against Innocent Citizens

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Lynch- ing an occasional bad man seems to me almost better than having a law on the state's statute book that is so susceptible to oppressive use by the police as to require the pledge which I heard Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney of the New York department give before a legislative committee here the other day— "Don't be afraid to trust us with this power; we'll not abuse it."

It was in connection with his advocacy of one of the Empire State anti-crime bills, aimed at the stamping out of gang violence in Manhattan that the police commissioner advanced his plea.

The provocation of Gotham's recent child killings has been extreme, certainly.

Nevertheless, long after the crime epidemic has subsided, it is safe to say that arrests will still continue to be made under the enactment placing the burden of proof upon the suspect to show that he is engaged in a lawful occupation or is living on an income from lawful investments.

Vagrancy laws, such as this one, are deliberately intended, of course, to be elastic.

The original idea back of all of them is to enable the police to exile a relatively small number of individuals of whose toughness they are morally convinced, or of whom they are only suspicious, but against whom they can prove nothing.

It might be all very well if they always were right—never made mistakes, never chased unfortunate folk out of town for no worse offense than being jobless, never were actuated by motives purely of personal dislike, never used the law as a means of extorting money. Not much money is wrung out of ordinary "vags," to be sure, for they have none, but frequently it is to be had from genuinely hard characters.

and the beauty of the system is that dishonest bluecoats virtually are offered an inducement to keep these scoundrels in their midst, in order to bleed them financially.

The Washington, D. C., police have been begging congress (which is the district's city council) for a long time, for some such a law as New York is to be blessed with, but they have failed to get it thus far, due to the conclusive showing by one of its opponents, while it was being argued, early in the spring of 1929, that its provisions would justify the arrest of Calvin Coolidge unless he left town immediately after the expiration of his term in the White House.

The result was a laugh which ruined the measure's chances, and the recollection of it has prevented its adoption as often as it has been resurrected ever since then.

Naturally, no influential citizen ever is arrested as a "vag" in his home town, but plenty of persons are who are no worse than poor and strangers.

Just at the moment, the individuals Police Commissioner Mulrooney is after, as he explained to the legislature, is the class of well-dressed crooks with lots of money, but the law will remain long after the emergency is over—and, for the police, will be extremely convenient.

As for ever repealing it, "Nothing is more difficult," Congressman Fitzgerald of Ohio, for a long time chairman of the house of representatives' committee on revision of laws, once told me, "than wiping a statute out, after it has outlived its usefulness and perhaps become a positive menace."

"People who never dreamed of its existence will rise up in its defense the instant they hear of a move to cancel it."

The New York legislature was afraid of its new vagrancy law, too. All of Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee's eloquence, all of Commissioner Mulrooney's promises and the backing of ex-U. S. Attorney General William J. Donovan and John W. Davis, the Democrats' presidential candidate in 1924, who collaborated to make it air-tight, were needed to overcome the legislative codes committee's skepticism concerning its merits.

However, it probably will be some years (that is, until the purpose for which it originally was passed has been forgotten) before it will begin to be employed as a weapon of real oppression.

TIPS FOR FARMERS FROM STATE COLLEGE

—Select Show Fruit—When fruit is being picked a good supply for exhibition purposes can be selected. The fruit chosen should be large for the variety but not overgrown. Blemishes and injured fruit should not be saved.

Save Green Tomatoes—When tomatoes vines are apparently going to be caught by killing frosts, they may be pulled and hung in the cellar or a cool room where the fruits will ripen for some time.

Feed More Protein—As pastures become shorter the protein in the grain mixture for dairy cows should be increased. When pasture grass grows older and more mature its protein content decreases.

Build Strong Shells—One of the essentials in producing high quality eggs is to give the birds access to an unlimited supply of oyster shells or some other egg shell forming material. Usually the addition of cod liver oil to the ration will strengthen the egg shells.

McGovern Seeking To Have Watchers In Vote Recount

Charles C. McGovern, Apparently Defeated For Commissioner Post Plans Action

FORMAL REQUEST IS TURNED DOWN

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Charles C. McGovern, the militant independent candidate who was apparently defeated for the county commissioner nomination by Joseph C. Armstrong, today prepared to institute legal action to place two watchers at each of the five tables where a recount vote is retabulating the disputed votes.

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, counsel for McGovern, announced that he would petition the common pleas court for permission to place the watchers. Judge James R. MacFarlane yesterday refused an informal request for the watchers made by McGovern.

Growth Of Postal Receipts Is Shown By Old Statement

Receipts More In Day Now Than In Quarter Back In 1850

Some idea of the growth of the New Castle post office may be obtained from a scrutiny of an old account sheet, showing the returns made by Postmaster William H. Shaw to the postmaster general during the quarter from July 1 to September 30, 1850.

The total receipts from the local office during that time amounted to $457.50, the greater part of which was on collections from letters which were mailed unstamped and which were paid for by the recipient of the matter.

The amount of stamps carried on hand during the quarter was around $20 worth.

The postmaster then was paid on a percentage basis for the amount of collections and sales from his office.

Today the New Castle post office will do far more business in a day than was done in the whole quarter listed back in 1850.

Arraignment Of Professor Kane Postponed Week

Virginia Officials Had Hearing Scheduled For Today, Mrs. W. C. Graham Ill

MOTHER'S TESTIMONY BELIEVED NEEDED

Meanwhile Tennessee Faculty Member Insists He Didn't Drown His Wife

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 23.—Because Mrs. W. C. Graham, mother of the dead Jenny Kane, was confined to her bed by a nervous breakdown the preliminary hearing of Professor Elisha Kent Kane, charged with deliberately drowning his wife, was postponed until a week from today.

Professor Kane, cool and unruffled, sat through the legal formalities, in the front row of a courtroom crowded to the doors with spectators who drove into town from miles around. Most of them were men or young girls.

In asking for the postponement Prosecutor Roland Cook declared that the testimony of the mother of the drowned girl was so important that he could not proceed without her presence.

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 23.—A professor of murder—they will charge next week when Elisha Kent Kane of the University of Tennessee faculty is arraigned on the charge that he lured his wife into the vacation waters near here and drowned her as she screamed for mercy.

Another woman, they will charge. In this nation of many murder triangles, a case reminiscent of "the American tragedy," the Snyder-Gray murder, will have its first day in court when Kane is arraigned on a flat charge of murder a week from today.

Will Call Witnesses. A parade of witnesses for the state will be called to testify that Jenny Kane, wife of Professor Kane, was threatened with death many times before her inert body was drawn from the untelling waters of Chesapeake bay.

They will say that Jenny, long-suffering wife, did not know how to swim. They will claim that she would not have ventured in water over her depth and that it was impossible for her to drown in the shallow water which Professor Kane describes.

Parents and relatives of Jenny Kane will relate how her professor-husband threatened to kill her, how on the night before the drowning she and Kane had been quarreling, how letters came over a long period from the other woman known as "Betty."

Kane is Cool. Against this array of preliminary circumstantial evidence, the defense will present a cool and dispassionate front for the time being.

Professor Kane will plead an emphatic "not guilty" but will attempt no refutation at this hearing through calling of witnesses.

"I was fond of my wife and she drowned accidentally," he insisted to International News Service. "I did all I could to revive her and at my trial I will tell my story which is the truth."

He repeated his story of how he heard his wife's cry for help as he was swimming some distance away. He said he hastened to her aid, pulled her to shore, attempted to revive her and rushed her to a hospital to learn that she was dead.

The prosecution will call a number of fishermen who will testify that they saw a man and woman apparently struggling in the water but that after the man pulled the woman from the water they saw no efforts at revival but the man placed in an automobile and drove off immediately.

Cousin Aids Defense. Among those expected to be called by the prosecution were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham, father and mother of the ill-fated Jenny Kane; W. H. "Hop" Graham, brother; Mrs. C. E. Weber, sister; Dr. Harry Howe, who first examined the body when Kane brought it into the hospital.

Associated with defense counsel is E. Kent Kane of Bradford, Pa., cousin of Professor Kane.

Reach Climax In Big Canning Project Today

Expect To Clean Up Great Part Of Fruits And Vegetables Today

WILL RUN OUT OF CANNING RECEPTACLES

Over Seventeen Hundred Quarts Of Food Are Canned On Tuesday

Over 1700 quarts of foodstuff were canned yesterday in the two junior high schools, where the big community canning project is under way, and today is expected to see the climax reached.

At the George Washington junior high school the 17 workers and seven supervisors canned 900 quarts of fruit and vegetables. In this amount there were 753 quarts of tomatoes, 129 quarts of peach butter and 78 quarts of apple butter.

At the Ben Franklin junior high the women canned 783 quarts of foodstuff, but lacked the facilities that were available at the George Washington, and also ran short of jars.

If enough jars were available a greater amount of stuff could be canned, as sympathizers in the movement have been most generous in their donations, and an additional amount of fruit and vegetables could easily be produced, if there were enough cans available, it is believed.

More Donations. It is expected to do much better in both schools today, and the women will undoubtedly put up close to 2,000 jars of canned vegetables, fruits and preserves.

Additional donations listed today included four dozen new jars and 25 pounds of sugar from Mrs. D. S. Fyfe, $5 in cash from Mrs. Howard B. Richards, additional jars from the Thaddeus Stevens school and St. Mary's school, while the latter also contributed 25 pounds of sugar.

At the George Washington, the women who are benefitting by the canning received 22 quarts of tomatoes, two quarts of apple butter and three quarts of peach butter for their day's efforts, the materials being divided equally between the reserve stock to be put away for distribution this winter and with the women who are working.

At the Ben Franklin school there were a great many more workers and they received six quarts each as their pro rata share.

Aid in Project. Those who are assisting in the supervising today at the George Washington are the following: Mrs. Louis Gordon, Mrs. George White, and Mrs. Howard Beck. Mrs. James Agan, Mrs. Charles Burkhardt, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Howard Magill, Mrs. Helen B. Burkhardt, Mrs. I. C. Bowman, Mrs. S. D. Pearson and Mrs. Will Kennedy. These women are from the Garden Club and the First Presbyterian, St. John's Lutheran and St. Mary's churches.

Those who aided with the supervising yesterday at the George Washington were Mrs. S. D. Pearson, Mrs. S. C. Shale, Mrs. J. P. Rentz, Mrs. Robert Tully, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Mont Blair, Mrs. E. B. Bartlett, Mrs. Norman Erlich, Mrs. Maurice Shoenberger, Mrs. Rizik, Miss Bertha Young, Mrs. Caroline Prezner, Mrs. Allan Goodman, Mrs. Baulder, Mrs. W. Russell Allen, Mrs. W. W. Howe, and Mrs. W. D. Jones.

Those who aided Tuesday at the Ben Franklin, were the following: First Baptist church—Mrs. D. R. Smith, Mrs. James Richards, Mrs. William Hammond, Mrs. Gorman, Mrs. Russler and Mrs. Hulda Peterson.

Epworth M. E.—Mrs. J. M. Edwards, Mrs. A. W. Scott and Mrs. J. H. Wigton.

General Presbyterian—Mrs. H. O. Sturdevant.

Third U. P.—Mrs. Ethel Diehl.

These women assisted the Messrs. Wallace Kress and Rice of the Ben Franklin faculty and Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, Mrs. William H. Feuchtwanger, Mrs. W. C. Eckenrode of the Garden Club.

Those who are aiding today are: Bethany Lutheran—Mrs. Sherman Kitson, Mrs. Glucas, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. John Hollowich.

St. Joseph's—Mrs. George Metz, Mrs. Katterson, Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Marbacher.

Mattland Memorial—Mrs. William Johnston.

General Presbyterian—Mrs. H. O. Sturdevant.

Second U. P.—Mrs. Elder Bryan.

Garden Club—Mrs. W. C. Eckenrode, Mrs. Will Kennedy and Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger.

The women expect to continue with the work as long as the supply of fresh fruit and vegetables and jars hold out. Donations of any of these materials are still being solicited and any person willing to contribute anything is asked to call 5084.

At the Ben Franklin this morning, the women were canning some of the stuff in tin cans, which were sealed with sealing wax.

School Children Need Foods That Give Energy Dr. Clendening States

Spinach, Carrots, Salads Not Enough To Give Proper Nutrition To Active Student, Doctor Explains

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The problems of school life are by no means restricted to competition in studies. It has been said that the child in school first encounters not only Minerva, but also Venus, Bacchus and Mars.

More and more during the past 30 years the supervision of the physical side of the school child's welfare has been studied and taken over by authorities. The student should be able to learn as much about ventilation, sunlight, food, posture, the actions of muscles and the development of the body in school nowadays as he does about reading, writing and arithmetic.

The scholar's nutrition is one of the most important topics for parents and school authorities. Everything mentioned above contributes partly to it—fresh air, exercise, sleep, posture—but the most important is a proper diet.

And here we come upon the great burning question of "school lunches."

Furnishing lunches for school children has come to be a necessity in different schools for different reasons. In rural schools because of the distance between school and home. In some instances because the general grade of nutrition among the students is too low to admit of first-class studying ability. There is a large amount of discussion among parents and children about the school lunches.

For instance, the dietitians eat a great deal of salad. The children do not like salad. The parents are asked to order the child to eat salad. Even under orders the child won't eat salad. What about it? (I am detailing actual instances now.)

I say the children are right and the dietitians are wrong. A child is a very high-power energy machine and needs a lot of fuel. You get very little out of salad. Dietitians have been taught to regard salad with holy awe because their training has been centered around the preparation of diets for electrically diabetics and Bright's disease sufferers. Salad is all right for an old man who is going to spend the afternoon on the back porch. But for a 10 year old, just full of pep and pride, it is no good at all. Don't blame your child if he fills up on candy bars if you make him eat mostly spinach and salad at regular meals.

The child seems to know what it needs. It needs energy and it likes the energizing foods—meat and potatoes and bread and jelly and sugar and eggs and milk.

I realize why spinach and carrots and salad have been emphasized for the child's diet. Because they have the green vegetable vitamins and pigment. That is all right. Far be it from me to suggest so drastic a revolution as to remove spinach from the nursery table. But I do say the thing can be overdone—a little spinach and salad and carrots go a long way.

The dietitians who have taken an unbalanced view of their teachings and make these substances the mainstay of the school lunch are wrong. The children can get pigment and vitamins in oranges, milk and eggs.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Baby Girl Gets Action By Tantrums

Teacher-Parents Fear Bad Disposition Developing

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

A MOTHER WRITES:

"Dear Dr. Myers: My husband and I are both former teachers. At the present time he is principal of a large elementary school, and so we are fairly well educated along scholastic lines. I taught for nearly eight years, but for all that our one little babe brings to us problems which we never knew existed.

"She is just 16 months old. She has been given the best possible care, however, and now is fully normal, and enjoys regular habits of eating, sleeping, etc. She always has cried a great deal simply because it has brought results—at first we walked the floor night after night, did anything to prevent the crying, because the doctor said she could not stand the exhaustion of crying for long periods. Now she has learned that her displeasure makes her world take action. From crying it has developed into scolding and screaming. She can enact a temper tantrum to perfection, until she really seems to be developing a disconcerting disposition and we surely do not want that to happen.

"If company comes and they speak to her she scolds and slaps at them—here we try to be people and not notice her as a preventative. If daddy attempts to kiss or love her she always resents it terribly.

"We both are subject to nervous excitability, but we know that temper is not inherited; we know, too, that the scolding is not due to baby's being over-tired, nor of a scolding unhappy environment, for we surely are a happy family. Can you help us, Dr. Myers?"

Answer: It is easy to see how the trouble you describe developed, but it is not so easy for you to correct the difficulty. I think, however, that you have no need to worry about the problem if you can maintain your present intelligent attitude of calm about the matter. As for getting angry when dad wants to kiss her, he will get best results if he does not ask her to kiss him. If he is indifferent about such matters she will want his expression of affection.

Never tell her, at three or four, or prior to the age of three or four, to do anything. There will be a few times when you should tell her not to do a few specific things. Make requests, and if she does not accede to them, try to honor her choice just as you would that of an adult.

Do your utmost to see that she never by whining or having a tantrum, gets what she wants. When she raves at like a wooden post, or she injures herself or strikes you, or injures property in the tantrum, pull down her clothes and give her a good vigorous spanking on her bare fat thighs, and make it hurt. When she gets angry at your guests just go on diverting their attention away from her.

You should get some help from my pamphlet, "Punishments and Rewards." Send a 5-cent stamp to the U. S. Superintendent of Public Documents, Washington, D. C., for my pamphlet "Education of Young Children Through Celebrating Their Successes."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are "Punishments and Rewards" and "Fear."

Mower Is Clue In Ohio Murder

Revenge Seen As Possible Motive In Doctor's Slaying

MANSFIELD, O., Sept. 23.—Finger prints on a lawn mower standing before the garage in which the body of Dr. Harry G. Roby was found, furnished police with another slim clue in the search for the dentist's slayer.

Confronted by almost a total lack of evidence pointing out either a motive or the identity of the killer, police were hopeful of discovering a valuable clue in the prints.

Meanwhile, investigators are groping for a motive. At first thought to be robbery, the motive appeared equally likely in revenge. Dr. Roby was involved in some liquor law violation cases and was alleged to have gambled considerably.

Hunt Body After Canoe Is Found

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—Discovery of an empty canoe floating in Euclid Creek led police on a search along the Lake Erie shore for the body of Joseph Brultz, 38, operator of a garage in the rear of the William Gemm Mfg. Co., 17304 Neff Road N. E.

The canoe was identified as belonging to Brultz, who was last seen about 9:30 a. m. A pair of boots which he customarily wore on fishing trips was missing from the garage, creating the belief that he met disaster on a fishing trip.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

It is probable that few remember many of the actual statistics concerning Lawrence county, when it was formed in 1849. The census of the United States placed it at 21,079, including 132 persons of the colored race. The population of New Castle at that time was 1,614, including 51 persons of the colored race. In 1860, the population of the county was 22,359 and that of New Castle 1832. In 1870, the county had a population of 27,298 and the city of New Castle had grown to 6,154 persons. As a matter of comparison, the population in the recent census was approximately 100,000 for the county and approximately 50,000 for the city. Lawrence county became a separate representative district in 1871 and under the constitution adopted in 1873 became entitled to two representatives in the state legislature, which ratio holds good today.

AS 'ERBERT SEES HIMSELF

As an offset to G. B. Shaw's epigram we relate an anecdote showing H. G. Wells' modesty. He and a young English writer of promise were about to enter a dining room. The young man deferentially motioned for the famous author to precede him, but Wells stepped aside. "No, you go first," he said; "you're Tomorrow, I'm Yesterday."

Disorder Occurs Around Ohio Mine

Strikers Storm Road To Prevent Non-Strikers Going To Work

(International News Service)

ATHENS, O., Sept. 23.—Disorder broke out suddenly in the Hocking Valley coal mine district today when a crowd of 200 strikers stormed a road near N. 6 Mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. and attempted to prevent non-striker from going to work.

Robert Marshall, one of the miners, was seriously cut over the right eye when he was struck by flying glass when strikers hurled rocks through an automobile in which he was riding, according to authorities.

Two other miners were stopped by the strikers. Badly frightened, they abandoned their car and fled.

Former sheriff Peter McKinley, general superintendent, was threatened by the crowd but was not touched. Sheriff Wayne Wingett said.

Trouble had been fermenting in the district for several weeks over the alleged failure of mine operators to employ check weighmen selected by miners.

ELECTRICITY TRICK CAUSE OF DEATH

MANSFIELD, Sept. 23.—A victim of the strange and dangerous tricks of electricity, Paul Clever, 34, a cash-line station attendant is dead here from burns suffered when a spark ignited gas in the air, causing an explosion.

The explosion resulted when Clever pulled a switch to halt the overflow of a 30,000 gallon gasoline tank being filled from a car on a side-track near the station.

Clever's clothing was burned from his body. Eyewitness were barely able to save the station, and Lem Parker a fellow-attendant suffered a severely burned hand in trying to rescue Clever.

New Bridge Will Be Opened Soon; Span 3,500 Feet

Structure Across Hudson
May Rightly Claim Crown Of World's Mightiest

DATA GIVEN ON OTHER BIG SPANS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Completion of the new George Washington bridge, New York's mammoth new span, and plans for opening it to traffic in October, call attention to some of the other large and famous bridges of the world.

The new bridge may rightly claim the crown of bridge-building's mightiest because it possesses the longest span between supports—3,500 feet," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Other bridges, however, are longer over all, and have decks at a greater height above the water than that of the George Washington bridge.

Detroit Bridge Second
"Among the suspension bridges of the world the 3,500-foot span of the new Hudson bridge has no rival. The Ambassador bridge, connecting Detroit and Sandwich, Ontario, is a rather distant second with a central span of 1,850 feet. But the Detroit river bridge stretches 9,000 feet, compared to the Hudson's 8,700. The Philadelphia-Camden suspension bridge, with a central span of 1,750 feet, has even longer approaches, giving it an over-all of 9,500 feet. Most of the longest central spans in the world are cable suspended.

"Many places enter contestants for the title 'longest bridge in the world.' Some of the claimants are only trestles, built over swampy land half covered with cinders and low earth. Among the more notable long bridges which traverse bodies of open water, and their approximate lengths are: Great Salt Lake cut-off, 29 miles; 28 miles with filled sections; San Francisco Bay, San Mateo, seven miles; Lake Pontchar-

train, Louisiana, railroad bridge, seven miles; James river bridge, Newport News, Va., six miles; Gandy bridge, Tampa, Fla., six miles; Lake Pontchartrain, Louisiana, highway, five miles; and Hell Gate bridge, 3½ miles. Florida may claim the longest series of bridges between the tip of its mainland and Key West, some 30 miles. Its widest water jump is over seven miles.

"Among the cantilever bridges—bridges with projecting beams supporting on one end—the longest and most famous is Quebec bridge, crossing the St. Lawrence river nine miles west of Quebec. This bridge, with a main span of 1,800 feet, was more than 20 years in construction and cost over 80 lives. Twice this most tragic of modern bridges collapsed in course of construction, necessitating many changes in design. Until the Quebec bridge was finished in 1927 the Fifth of North bridge, Scotland, with two main spans of 1,710 feet each, was king of the cantilevers. Other long cantilevers are: Queensboro, New York City, 1,182 feet; Cooper river, Charleston, S. C., 1,050 feet; Monongahela river, Pittsburgh, Pa., 812 feet; and Mississippi river, Vicksburg, Miss., 800 feet.

Australia's Biggest Bridge
"Australia has the momentary distinction of possessing the largest steel arch bridge in the world, the new Sydney harbor span with a central arch of 1,650 feet. It is estimated that its four lanes of vehicular traffic, two train and two trolley tracks, will carry more than a million persons daily, which traffic, if attained, will give it the additional title of the world's busiest bridge.

"Next year, however, the Sydney bridge will be boxed out by a scant 2 feet and 1 inch, when the Kill Van Kull bridge, connecting New Jersey and Staten Island, is finished. This arch of 1,625 feet, 1 inch, will carry less traffic, however, as the original plans call for only four lanes for vehicles, to which can ultimately be added two more lanes, or two interurban train tracks.

Other notable steel arch bridges are: Hell Gate, New York City, 978 feet; Niagara Falls, N. Y., 840 feet; and Topock, Arizona, 592 feet.

Replacing a Bridge in 7 Minutes
"Of the simple truss—rigid framework—bridges the Castleton, N. Y., bridge over the Hudson river has the longest channel span—1,008 feet. A three-span truss railroad bridge over the Muskingum river at Tyndall, Ohio, over 700 feet long, and weighing over 7,000,000 pounds, was rolled into place one morning a few years ago in seven minutes, after it had been built, on adjoining property. Train schedules were not interrupted. Another important truss bridge is that over the Ohio river at Metropolis, Illinois, with a central section of 720 feet.

"The biggest bascule drawspan bridge is that over the St. Mary's Canal at St. Ste. Marie, Michigan, which has a span of 336 feet. The title of the 'world's highest bridge' is claimed by the suspension bridge across the Royal Gorge in Colorado, whose roadway is 1,052 feet above the waters of the Arkansas river. Loftier in altitude is the 'highest railroad bridge, the Viscas railroad bridge in Peru, 15,000 feet above sea level—but spanning a gorge of no great depth itself.

"Some bridges are famous, however, that lack any claims to immensity. The old London bridge, for instance, and the Ponte Vecchio in Florence; the Pont Neuf, in Paris; Rialto, in Venice, and the Bridge of Sighs in the same place. Brooklyn bridge, when it was completed in 1883, was the world's largest, but it now is in sixth place among suspension bridges alone. It is, perhaps, America's most famous bridge, and, with the Eads bridge over the Mississippi river in St. Louis, has been the most publicized.

Bridges of the Future

"But the giants of today are the pygmies of the future. Plans are under consideration for a suspension bridge over the Golden Gate, San Francisco, which will call for a channel span of 4,200 feet. Another for the Narrows, between Staten Island and Long Island, New York, will have to stretch 5,000 feet. It has been estimated that the longest suspension bridge—the only practical type for great distance—that can be built with our present steel is a little less than two miles. Beyond that traffic would have to be lightened so that the enterprise would not be profitable. At about 50,000 feet the cables would snap their own weight.

"Each cable of the giant new Hudson river span is a yard thick, and four of them support the roadway wide enough for eight lanes of traffic. When the cables were first spun from 26,474 thin wires each, they had an outside diameter of 48 inches. Huge clamps were run the entire length of the cables, squeezing them to 36 inches. Four hundred men took two years to spin the four cables. Stretched out in a straight line this amount of wire would reach almost halfway from the earth to the moon."

Star Lore

CROWNING DISCOVERY OF NEWTON
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Kepler discovered the three laws of the motion of the planets around the sun and showed that the force controlling planetary orbits was directed toward the sun, but Newton went still further and showed that the sun, in proportion to its mass, attracted each planet, and in like manner each planet, in proportion to its mass, also attracted the sun. Out of this demonstration grew Newton's general law of gravitation—that every particle of matter attracts every other particle of matter in proportion to the product of their masses, and inversely (oppositely) proportional to the square of the distance between them. Newton's general law marked a sublime discovery.

Two Nations Fail In Price Fixing Plans

United States And Brazil
Hav Similar Experiences

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—A striking similarity between government efforts in the United States and Brazil to stabilize farm products through federal intervention in speculative markets was pointed out here recently.

In Brazil, the government sought vainly to stabilize coffee prices—in the United States, the Federal Farm Board attempted to stabilize wheat and cotton prices.

Persons in close touch with the situation pointed out that Brazil's coffee price control experiment proved unsuccessful to the point of disaster.

The Brazilian coffee "valorization" effort was described in a recent statement by the Bank of Brazil as a "ruinous venture." The bank attacked the venture and recalled that for the last 2 years the Brazilian government has attempted "by all conceivable means to valorize coffee"—that is to give it an artificial price in excess of the market quotations, which are subject to the operation of the natural economic law of supply and demand.

The Brazilian experiment, it is now officially admitted, after numerous futile attempts, has placed the farmer there in a "worse position than before."

Brazil's experience was in brief an attempt to control prices by buying up part of existing supplies and withdrawing it from the market.

Large Orders Are Received
During May And April

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—During April and May, 1931, orders placed in Czechoslovakia for iron wire and metals by the Russian trade commission in Prague totaled $7,000,000 crowns (approximately $2,010,000), according to a report received from Acting Commercial Attache Sam E. Woods.

Orders placed for machinery and equipment amounted to about 14,300,000 crowns ($520,000). As Czechoslovak firms are unable to grant long time credits, the realization of various orders was delayed. These orders included 200 boilers valued at 24,000,000 crowns ($720,000), machinery for quarries, road rollers and construction machinery valued at 22,000,000 crowns ($660,000) and equipment for a pipe factory valued at 5,000,000 crowns ($150,000).

The Russian trade commission reports that negotiations are being carried on with a machine factory for the delivery of locomotives and 25 river barges as well as 100 compressors and 30,000 tons of rails.

It is claimed that one machine factory in Prague has refused to accept Russian orders valued at 40,000,000 crowns ($1,200,000).

Negotiations for tractors were without success as American prices were about 30 per cent lower, according to Czechoslovak reports.

Arthur McGill Parent-Teachers Association Meets

New Officers Are Installed And Teachers Honored With A Tea

First fall meeting in the renewing of the activities of Arthur McGill Parent-Teachers Association for the present term of school, was an event of Tuesday afternoon in the Arthur McGill school, with a good attendance of the members. Features of the meeting was the installation of the new officers, addresses on interesting topics by members of the association and the tea held honoring the teachers of the school.

The meeting was opened by the singing of America, followed by prayer. Miss Margaret Preston was in charge of the musical part of the program. A resume of the work of the organization in the past year followed with the reports of Mrs. H. N. Drio as secretary and Miss Lucy Dausenbeck as treasurer, as an interesting part of this part of the program being presented.

Installation of the new officers then took place with Mrs. J. L. Reed, retiring president, acting as installing officer. The officers installed for the ensuing year are: President, Mrs. H. N. Drio; vice-president, Mrs. Harry Dinsmore; secretary, Mrs. G. W. Thomas and treasurer, Miss Margaret Reed.

At the close of the installation, the new officers with the principal R. G. Leslie were introduced to the members of the association in attendance.

Then followed some interesting addresses by teachers and parents of the association. Miss Helen Maxwell in a pleasing and effective manner, presented a past president's pin, speaking of it being in appreciation of the service rendered to the organization and the school by the recipient.

Mrs. E. L. Thompson then spoke on the purpose and objectives of the Parent-Teachers Association, her remarks being most appropriate and appreciated by all who heard them. Mrs. V. W. Hoye then spoke on the importance of the parents having "Child Welfare," the magazine of the P. T. A. and reviewed a number of recent and important articles published in it.

The regular meeting was followed with a tea in honor of the teachers and which served as a medium of getting the parents and teachers better acquainted with one another.

An attractively arranged tea table stood in the rear of the place of assembly and here tea was poured with the Hospitality Committee of the association pouring, assisted by Miss Kate Stockman. The members of the Hospitality Committee in charge of the event are Mrs. J. L. Reed, Mrs. George W. Lamore, Mrs. Verne Dufford and Mrs. Fred Schepple. The affair then came to a close.

Colleges Report Large Enrollment
Approximately 75,000 Undergraduates Have Been Registered, Poll Reveals

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Approximately 75,000 undergraduate students have been enrolled in Pennsylvania colleges for the present academic year, a poll of the institutions of higher learning in the State reveals.

This compares favorably with last year when 72,400 undergraduates were enrolled in the various colleges and universities. Inquiries to these schools have brought replies showing the actual or anticipated enrollment for the present year is the same or larger than last year.

In some schools and universities the enrollment has decreased from the 1930-31 figure but in others the enrollment figure for 1931-32 is higher, and in some instances has set new records. With the increasing enrollments, balancing or more than making up for the decreases it is indicated that this year's enrollment will equal if not exceed that of last year and make the 1931-32 figure approximately 75,000.

Temple Equals Last Year
Temple University reports an indicated freshman enrollment of between 1000 and 1200 equal to or larger than last year with a corresponding status in the total undergraduate enrollment.

Westminster College has two loan funds available for deserving students and a number have availed themselves of the opportunity of borrowing money on long term notes from these funds to assist in meeting their college expenses.

Penn State reports an indicated enrollment approaching a record mark of 5000 as compared with last year's peak of 4700.

Lehigh University, pending a final check at the end of the month, anticipates little if any decrease in enrollment this year.

Limit Enrollments
A number of schools having limited enrollments have reported a number of applicants for registration rejected while other colleges report indicated enrollments comparing favorably with that of last year.

Penn State has filled its incoming freshman class to the 1225 capacity mark from a record number of more than 2200 applications.

Lehigh University denied admission to several hundred applicants.

"We find the desire to go to college on the part of the young people greater than ever," said President George L. Omwake of Ursinus College.

Carnegie Tech denied admission to approximately 500 applicants and St. Thomas College denied admission to 125. The applications were rejected because of failure to meet entrance requirements or because the applications already accepted had filled the quota for the incoming classes.

You see, England is poor and must borrow from France because France is too poor to pay what she owes England.

Fruit And Vegetable Display On West Side

Art of a practical sort was demonstrated in the West Side school Tuesday afternoon when the students of the school presented a flower, fruit and vegetable display, all of it being the product of the youngsters' labor during the past summer.

As a display of produce it was a commentary on the industry of the boys and girls, but this feature alone was more or less secondary. The purpose of the display was to work out the training in art they had to put to useful purpose the lessons of the monochromatic, complimentary and analogous color schemes, and to learn to group flowers so they are an adornment to a table or room.

Lobby Like Fair.
The lobby of the school was like a fair. Tables were so arranged that the visitors stepped in from the main doorway. On the table were all the seasonal flowers, dahlias, gladioli, zinnias, marigolds, golden rod and the other fall favorites.

On the inside tables were the vegetables which had taken so much of toil and enthusiasm during the hot summer months. Corn and beans, tomatoes and squashes, peppers and carrots, egg plant and Swiss chard, cabbage, endive, beans, cucumbers, all of them the result of some boy or girl's labor.

In the evening a program was held in the auditorium of the school, a program that further tied together the theoretical and practical side of art in gardens. A playlet was written by Miss Elsie Kevine, Miss So-phronia Lower had arranged the art decorations, and Miss Charlotte Andrews the music. The program was presented by grades 4, 5 and 6.

By J. K. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The funny little man who wears baggy pants and the strange little man who wears none met for the first time Tuesday when Charles Spencer Chaplin, king comedian of the films, made the acquaintance of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, apostle of Indian independence.

The meeting took place at the home of Dr. C. L. Katial, deep in the heart of London's east end slum district.

To the sincere regret of both principals in the unusual encounter, the meeting was attended by a near riot in which two little children were badly hurt. Hundreds of other youngsters were crushed in the mob that surged about the house in an attempt to catch a glimpse of the film star and the wizened little Indian he had come to visit.

McKelvie Offers Plan For Relief

Samuel R. McKelvie, Former Farm Board Member Has Good Relief Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Samuel R. McKelvie, former farm board member and one time governor of Nebraska, brought to the board his plan to make stabilization wheat available to the needy through community chests.

He has discussed the proposal with the heads of several relief agencies here this week.

McKelvie estimates that 10,000,000 bushels would be sufficient to feed the unemployed and poor. Congressional action would be necessary to reimburse the board for this amount from the approximately 190,000,000 bushels it controls.

Two members of the board, Chairman Stone and Carl Williams, favor the suggestion. Stone said the question has been discussed already in an informal way and Williams suggested that community chests buy direct from the board with local funds.

Opposition emitters the enthusiasm, but never converts him.—Schiller.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 23.—If President Roosevelt were alive today he would undoubtedly look with pride upon the family picture of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Stiver and their fourteen children, who occupy a farm in Huston township, Bald Eagle Valley. Stiver was a candidate for the Republican nomination for register of wills and clerk of the orphans' court of Centre county and he smilingly referred to his family as fourteen reasons why he should have been nominated, but the fate of politics decreed otherwise and he lost out.

Aside from that fact, Stiver is as proud of his large family as it is possible for any man to be. He is only 45 years old and his wife a year or two younger. His eldest child is only 21 years old. None of the children is married and all are at home doing their part in making a living on the farm.

Three of the children are graduates of the Bellefonte high school. Harry, the eldest, graduated in 1929 and Beatrice and Helene in 1930. Elva is now a student in Bellefonte high. The outstanding ambition of Mr. and Mrs. Stiver is to give all of their children a high school education.

For a number of years Stiver worked for the Pennsylvania Railroad, but later engaged in farming.

Penna. Has Water Supply Untapped

Faulty Well Construction
And Ignorance Of Glacial Drifts Cause Shortage

Co-operative Survey In Twelve Counties Made
By Federal And State Groups

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Northeastern Pennsylvania has a vast undeveloped ground-water supply waiting to be tapped.

That was revealed today in a report of a co-operative survey in twelve counties of that section of the state conducted by the federal and state geological surveys during the summer of last year when many of the communities were on water rations as a result of the drought.

Two conditions—faulty well construction and ignorance of the water-giving qualities of sand and gravel glacial drift—were found in the report to be responsible for any shortage.

"In many places," said the report, "the glacial drift contains large supplies of water and these supplies can be developed by improved methods of well construction."

The counties comprising the territory surveyed are Carbon, Columbia, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Montour, Northumberland, Pike, Schuylkill, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming and the northern three-fifths of Dauphin.

Coal basins were found to be compelled to turn to surface streams and lakes for water because mining operations in addition to draining wells and springs have mineralized and contaminated them.

In those communities dependent upon ground water, that is, springs and wells, the report established drilled wells as far superior to those which are dug. The drought conditions of last year dried up many of the dug wells and was responsible for considerable drilling of new ones.

An exception was found in the stratified drift or glacial outwash deposits where dug wells were found to be less likely to dry and generally yield larger quantities of water. "It is believed," the report added, "that dug wells will eventually be largely replaced by drilled wells. During the summer of 1931 scores of wells were being drilled but only one well was seen that was being dug."

"Drilled wells are still rather scarce in some of the counties, notably Susquehanna and Wyoming counties, but are numerous in most of the counties, particularly in Luzerne county. More abundant supplies of water are obtained from drilled wells and they are less likely to be seriously affected by periods of dry weather."

"With few exceptions, the drilled wells in northeastern Pennsylvania end in bedrock. A few drilled wells end in sand or gravel and nearly all of these are open-finished wells—that is, cased wells without perforations or screens in which the water enters the well through the bottom end of the casing."

"The importance of using well screens or strainers in wells ending in sand or gravel has not been realized in northeastern Pennsylvania."

Population Statistics For Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 23.—The urban population of Pennsylvania in 1930 was 6,533,511, forming 67.8 per cent of the total population. Urban population, as defined by the Census Bureau, is in general that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

For use in connection with the 1930 census, however, the definition of urban territory has been slightly modified and extended so as to include townships and other political subdivisions (not incorporated as municipalities, nor containing any area so incorporated) which have a total population of 10,000 or more, and a population density of 1,000 or more per square mile. This extension added to the urban group in Pennsylvania 10 townships having an aggregate population of 210,505 which would have been classified as rural under the 1920 rule. Under the 1920 rule, the percentage urban in 1930 would have been 65.7 per cent, instead of 67.8 per cent, the difference representing the effect of the special rule adding the 10 townships to the urban area.

The rural population of Pennsylvania, as established for 1930, excluding the 10 townships affected by the special rule, was 3,097,839, comprising 846,240 persons living on farms in rural territory, and 2,251,599 not living on farms, representing a nominal decrease of five tenths of one per cent. Under the 1920 rule, the rural population of the State in 1930 would have been 3,308,244, which would represent an increase of 6.3 per cent, as compared with the rural population in 1920 (3,112,202).

Of the entire population of Pennsylvania, 95.4 per cent are white, 82.6 per cent being native white, and 12.8 per cent foreign-born white. Of the native white population, more than two thirds are of native percentage. Of the foreign-born white population of Pennsylvania (which numbered 1,233,051) 62.0 per cent have been naturalized.

The population of the State as a whole increased 911,333 or 10.5 per cent, between 1920 and 1930. The number of children under 1 year decreased 28,371 or 14.5 per cent while the entire group of children under 5 years of age showed a decrease of 109,622 or 10.9 per cent.

The proportion of the population 7 to 13 years of age attending school increased from 94.5 per cent in 1920 to 97.3 per cent in 1930, and of those 14 and 15 years of age, the proportion increased from 79.6 per cent in 1920 to 91.2 per cent in 1930. The percentage of illiteracy in the population 10 years of age and over decreased from 4.6 to 3.1.

Of the 3,722,428 gainful workers in the state 2,915,673 were males, representing 60.2 per cent of the male population and 806,755 were females, representing 16.9 per cent of the female population. Including both farm owners and farm laborers, agriculture employed 251,443 persons; 327,476 were engaged in the extraction of minerals including 296,694 employed in coal mines, while the various manufacturing and mechanical industries employed 1,469,463, the largest numbers being in the building industry, in iron and steel industries, in textile industries, and in clothing industries. There were 359,686 persons engaged in transportation; 562,940 in trade, including banking and insurance; 73,332 in public service (not elsewhere classified); 247,293 in professional service and 322,245 in domestic and personal service.

Vote Machines Fail To Relieve Farrell Situation
Voters, Unfamiliar With Operation Of Machines, Cause Great Delay

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 23.—Will more vote machines be bought in Mercer county is a question that is uppermost in minds of many. It is unfair to blame the congested condition of wards in the populous centers at the voting of September 15th on the machines.

Had the voters been educated to quick use of them there would have been no difficulty at all in handling the situation. Despite every effort to get the voters out and familiarize them with use of the machines the congestion occurred because of the delay in the voters in casting their ballots. It is said some voters waited five hours so great was the crowd.

There is a movement on foot in the Sharon and Farrell wards to have the commissioners redistrict these two cities, establish more precincts and cut down this congestion.

Observations In 7th Ward

When the Chief Executive of a nation steps down from the national observation platform of his private car into the midst of a crowd of admirers to buy a newspaper, you can just bet the seller will tell a million-to-be-forgotten thrill that will cause him to recollect the actual experience long after the years have passed.

This President Hoover didn't do when he passed thru Mahoningtown on Monday but ex-President Calvin Coolidge did a few years back.

And ask Thomas Solomon, proprietor of the wards newsstand, the man on the surprised end of the sale, he remembers it vividly. He was again recalled to his mind by Hoover's passing yesterday.

There happened to be a crowd at the B. & O. depot this particular morning, scores congregating about to catch as good a glimpse as possible of the President. Solomon, holding newspapers in his arms was among them.

Mr. Coolidge stepped out, bowed his head courteously and then down the steps of the coach he came. He looked at Solomon and asked him for a paper. It caused the crowd to silence instantly, but he quickly went up the steps again. Then he faced the spectators again and waved a final greeting.

The presidential train started, and so did Solomon, back to his store to tell about it. He hasn't forgotten.

IT IS ESTIMATED THAT THERE WERE ABOUT 100,000 INDIANS LIVING IN CALIFORNIA WHEN THE FIRST SPANISH MISSIONARIES CAME THERE FROM MEXICO, THOUGH FIERCE FIGHTERS WHEN OCCASION AROSE, MOST OF THESE INDIANS WERE FRIENDLY AND PEACEFUL AND PROVED FERTILE SOIL FOR THE SEEDS OF CHRISTIANITY SOWN BY THE PADRES.

DUE TO THE WARM CLIMATE OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, THE RED MEN DID NOT BUILD WIGWAMS OR LODGES, BUT LIVED IN FLimsy SHELTERS OF BOUGHS, THATCHED WITH GRASS. FOR THE SAME REASON, ALL WORE VERY LITTLE CLOTHING.

SOME TRIBES WERE CALLED "DIGGERS," BECAUSE THEY DUG FOR EDIBLE ROOTS WHICH FORMED AN IMPORTANT ITEM OF THEIR DIET. THEY ALSO ATE BREAD MADE OF ACORN MEAL. THE WOMEN, WHO DID ALL THE WORK, WERE EXPERT AT WEAVING BEAUTIFUL BASKETS.

THE PADRES WERE SURPRISED TO FIND THAT THESE INDIANS HAD NO POTTERY. THEY BAKED BREAD ON HEATED ROCKS. BOILING WAS DONE IN TIGHTLY-WOVEN BASKETS FILLED WITH WATER IN WHICH HOT STONES WERE DROPPED . . . 471

Bill Donnelly, New Castle vs. Homer Gray, New Castle: 6 rounds, 163 pounds.

Merle Gibson, New Castle vs. Jack White, Sharon: 4 rounds, 160 pounds.

Johnny Banko, New Castle vs. Johnny Hunka, Butler: 4 rounds, 135 pounds.

Marshall Couette, Cleveland vs. opponent not yet picked: 4 rounds, 130 pounds.

Vito Mangine, New Castle vs. Walter West, New Castle: 4 rounds, 135 pounds.

The Arnold-Jennings and Donnelly-Gray battles are "naturals." There will be no stalling when they clash. It is probable there will be knockouts in both bouts. The only thing that will prevent a "kayo" will be bicycle tactics or a toughness bordering on iron man durability.

Everyone of the four can punch. Merle Gibson sometimes referred to as Pop Eye, because he popped Frankie Frey on his right, rendering the optic unfit for further use, thus resulting in "Pop Eye" grabbing the when he meets Jack White of Sharon. White is a tough hombre, Gibson's awkwardness may puzzle Jack for awhile.

Banko is a good puncher, in fact one of the best developed here. He will take on Johnny Hunka who has been boxing boys who have fought U. S. Carpentier. If he can stand up under a right to the jaw he may make things interesting for Banko. Butler ex-servant men claim he can hence prospects for a hot scrap.

Young Shamone, of Warren, O., accepted a bout with Marshall Couette but telephoned Tuesday he could not weigh lower than 134 pounds which caused his name to be shifted from the calendar. By tonight a capable opponent for the classic French-American from Utica, N. Y., should have been secured.

There'll be fire in the gloves of Vito Mangine when he faces Walter West as Walter put Mangine to sleep in the last round of their first bout. Until the K. O. came Mr. Mangine's son Vito was making things very hot for West. Vito believes he can turn the trick on Walter and says he will step on it as soon as the bell rings.

INDIANS TO PLAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Redskins in moleskins will whoop it up at the Polo grounds tonight when the New York professional football Giants open their seventh season in New York. The opposing team, the Hominy eleven of Oklahoma, is composed of Indians recruited from six southwestern colleges.

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 23.—Earl "Miz" Dart, assistant grid coach at Westminster, reports that Slippery Rock is much stronger than the results of last Saturday's game with Lock Haven would indicate.

Dart scored the Slippery Rock eleven at Slippery Rock on Saturday afternoon. He reported to Head Coach John Lawther that a team and a halfback, both rangy, rugged players, did not play for Slippery Rock Saturday but will be in the lineup against the Titans here Saturday. These two players are ineligible to play against other State Teachers' Colleges, but are eligible to compete against other opponents.

The continued drills which Lawther has been giving his men on forward pass defense would seem to indicate that the Titan mentor plans to stop this type of offense. The Titans will rely almost entirely on a running attack through the season, and do not want opponents to cash in on forward passes as was done last year.

Wilbur Patterson, New Wilmington, and Cromwell Ketterer, Rochester, are having a merry battle competing for the left halfback post on the starting team for the Titans. Regardless of the starter, each will see action in the game.

The only injured man who will not be available Saturday is Walter Young, right halfback from Freeport, L. I. Young injured his arm slightly last week and while he is ready to play, will not be used because Coach Lawther wants him to be ready for the Allegheny game two weeks hence.

Mauro "Whitey" Siljander, basketball and track letterman, is making a determined bid for either an end or a halfback post. "Whitey" is one of the fastest men on the squad, and may see action in Saturday's game in the backfield.

Season tickets in book form went on sale at the Sporting Goods Store in New Castle today. New bleachers have been constructed on the south side of the field, and the old bleachers on the north side have been repaired.

No Leniency Will Be Shown Future Offenders Around Taggart Field

There was considerable trouble in handling the crowd at the New Castle-Coronaolis high football game at Taggart field, last Friday night. A certain element was quite unruly and quite a number scaled the fences at the stadium. Faculty Manager Ralph E. Gardner of the high school stated this morning that action will be taken and any persons apprehending scaling the fences, or damaging the property of the stadium, so as to gain entrance to watch the game will be dealt with to the full extent of the law.

Starting with next Friday the police will arrest and enter information against any one apprehending. Notices will be posted to that effect. Another practice that must be eliminated is the practice of those purchasing 25 cent seats trying to get into the 50 cent stadium seats. Owing to the fact that many feel that they cannot afford to pay admission to the games, the canvass have not been placed along the north east corner of the field this year.

The athletic council feels that enough New Castle fans will pay the regular admission price to maintain athletics here and have no objection to those who feel they can not afford to do so, congregating in this section and watching the game from the outside of the fence. In other cities canvass curtains are placed around the open fences so as to prevent outsiders watching what is going on.

Last Friday it was noticed that hoodlums collected along Cunningham avenue and Division street using vulgar and indecent language, climbing the fences, attempting to tear them down and other unlawful acts. It is this element that will be dealt with to the full extent of the law.

The Athletic council asks the co-operation of the police force and the law abiding citizens of New Castle to break up such practices. Complaints have been received in the office of Mr. Gardner. "If the crowd outside do not know how to control itself in the way of language and make an attempt to damage the property at Taggart field, we will find a way to eliminate this," said City Manager Ralph E. Gardner this morning.

The Marcellas could do nothing against the clever hurling of Mauri. He fanned four men. Campoli occupied the mound for the losers and was found for twelve hits. Green, C. Ross and H. Lockley led the attack with triples, while Nickie Ross batted out three blows, one of them being a double.

The game was well handled by the three umpires, Price, Brooks, and Hamilton. The next game will likely be played Saturday afternoon. The box score:

Featherweight To Be Among Those To Box In V. Of F. W. Battles

There'll be considerable rivalry displayed between Sharon, Butler and New Castle posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars when the Harry McBride Post of the V. of F. W. stage their boxing show at the bowl next Monday night. Six tilts are carded. Sharon and Butler have fighters entered and it looks as though there'll be plenty of punches distributed.

Here's the way the card stacks up:

Tommy Jennings, New Castle, vs. Tommy Arnold, New Castle: 6 rounds, 140 pounds.

Grid Linemen Receive Very Little Attention But Do Yeomen Tasks

Linemen Make Holes For Backfield Men To Go Through, But Get Little Credit

Centers Are More Important To Football Today Than Ever Before Is Revealed

By EDDIE CASEY
Former All-American Halfback And New Head Football Coach At Harvard.

Written For And Copyrighted 1931 By International News Service
BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Line play in football is still an unknown quantity, so far as most spectators are concerned, because most of what goes on in there in the center of the line or in the midst of the tangle of play cannot be seen easily and lacks the spectacular touch. It is true that every year some outstanding linemen come to the fore and are watched closely whenever this team may be playing, but usually this star, so-called, has gained his prominence by other reasons than good football.

A star guard or tackle gets his reputation many times from being spectacular rather than good. Unusual physique, such as very broad shoulders, very squat figure, unusually big in every way or unusually small, all of these things in themselves help to single out players and make the crowd watch them. Again some linemen are fast down the field under kicks, or kick-off, or make themselves prominent by not wearing a headguard.

Numbers Help.
When a lineman gets prominence by any of these methods, the crowd will credit him with any piece of good line play that his team may show. One can sit in the stands and hear such a player receive credit for stopping a play or making a tackle when in reality he was flat on his back after a poor charge. Of course, the greater knowledge of football every year and the use of numbers on all players are factors helping to get credit where credit is due.

The term "dumb guard" or "stupid tackle" has never been justifiably used and is less true today than ever. Just as we found that centers have increasing burdens placed upon them, so the other linemen today are an important factor in every play of a football game. Their job has only begun when they make that first charge across the line of scrimmage. Each man in the line is carrying on his own battle of wits with his opponent, and the fate of the game often lies in one or the other being outwitted.

Off-Tackle Smash.
A guard, in taking his position on offense at the start of the play, must be careful to be in a strong position from which he can be most effective, and at the same time he must be careful to hide his job on the coming play from any of the opposing team.

In the case of unbalanced lines, the tackles will be seen interfering out of the line almost as much as the guards and many teams select their tackles for this ability. But the chief duty of the tackle on offense is to head the focal point of most plays of power.

The strongest play in football is still the off-tackle smash, and a powerful tackle will often make this play go through his own efforts in rolling up the opposing guard.

Albie Booth Is Not Regular On Yale Grid Team

Ailing Appendix Will Keep Captain And Star Half-back On Bench Most Of Season

MAY GET IN GAMES FOR FEW MINUTES

By FRANKLIN GRANT
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Captain Albie Booth, dazzling star of the Yale eleven, will not be a football regular for the blue team in 1931.

An ailing appendix is the cause. Booth, subject to attacks through most of the summer, postponed an operation, fearing that if he submitted, it might weaken him to such an extent that he would not be able to participate in any gridiron duels.

Appendix Frozen.
Since then, when attacks of pain have come, the appendix has been frozen. The process continues until now and will be continued until such time as the inflamed organ is removed.

The freezing has made it possible for Booth to indulge in practice for Yale and resorted to during the playing season, probably will enable him to get into each game for a brief spell. But, he will be under doctor's orders. The "Permissions" will be abbreviated and so Yale's captain, and its backfield satellite, will be able to perform little more than substitute chores.

Look For Upsets Today In Women's Golfing Tourney

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Enid Wilson, Maureen Orcutt Favored

(International News Service)
BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Two of the four major champions in the women's national golf title meetings teed up on the links of the country club of Buffalo this morning with the realization that they will have to play real golf in the second round today to remain in the battle.

The other two, Glenna Collett Vare, the defending titleholder, and Enid Wilson, the British champion, should have no difficulty in winning their way to the third round but it's a different story with Maureen Orcutt, Canadian champion, and Billie Hicks, the smiling swatter from Hewitt, N. Y.

Maureen started down the first fairway this morning with Bernice Wall as an opponent, and the Oshkosh girl proved that she was on her game plenty by the way she took Mrs. Lufur, Los Angeles, yesterday, 7 and 5.

On the lower side of the bracket Enid Wilson, British girl, is favored to win from Mrs. Gant Nelson of Dayton.

Helen Hicks and Marion Hollins are expected to stage a battle in their meeting today.

Virginia Van Wie, finalist to Glenna a year ago, is expected to "take" Frances Williams of Lehigh, Pa., and Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, and Helen Corson, Philadelphia, are well matched.

Leona Pressler, Los Angeles, just barely managed to beat Martha Parker on the 18th green, which means that she and Fritz Stiefel, West Virginia, may make a real battle of their meeting today. Fritz also had a home hole argument with Dorothy Hieble, one of the four medalists in the qualifying round.

ALL-STARS TO PLAY.
The Paul McCullough All-Stars mullish team will play the Lockleys tonight at Lehigh field at 5:30 o'clock. The All-Stars are anxious to defeat the Class A champions. A good game is anticipated.

Meine Registers Nineteenth Victory Of Season By Winning 13 Inning Game

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—The Pittsburgh Pirates took a 13-inning 3 to 2 victory over the Phillies here yesterday afternoon. Heinie Meine hung up his 19th victory of the year. Hal Finney was the hitting star with four solid smashes. Meine allowed the Phils but five hits over the long route.

Paul Waner was walked five times in the game, almost a record of some kind. It was a close game all the way. The Pirates also set another kind of record by having 20 men left on bases.

GLENNA DEFENDS NATIONAL TITLE

Mrs. Edwin Vare poses with women's national golf championship cup won last year along with the title by Miss Glenna Collett. Mrs. Vare is defending the cup in the tournament now being held in Buffalo, N. Y. How come Mrs. Vare defends Miss Collett's title? Because—she does!—Miss Collett is now Mrs. Vare!

Senators Seek Second Place

Washington Team Will Fight Hard For Second Money In American League

EARNSHAW WINS ANOTHER GAME

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Those Washington Senators, who occupied second place in the American League all season with the persistency of a congressman after a third term, went out to Yankee stadium today to battle for their lives. But just the same the Senators would be considered a very good risk by any insurance concern.

Both the Yanks and Senators have five more games to play and the New Yorkers must take three of the four-game series opening today to grab the runner-up position and a bigger slice in the world series melon.

Senators Win.
Thanks to some sound whacking yesterday by Cronin, Bluege, Meyer and Rice, Washington defeated the White Sox again, 7 to 2, and leads the Yankees by half a game. Fischer was the successful hurler, putting down his foot when asked to give more than seven hits.

Flopping the Tigers of Detroit, 8 to 6, the champion Athletics set a new record for pennant winners of Connie Mack by winning their 105th game. The previous record, 104 games, was made by the Mackmen of 1929. Jimmy Foxx crashed his homer No. 30 with two on, aiding Earnshaw to his 21st victory.

Young Paul Derringer's wildness and some ragged support by the National League beauties helped the Robins to win from St. Louis, 6 to 3. O'Doul, with three important hits, led the attack of Brooklyn. The win assured the Robins of a first division berth at the finish.

Browns Take Game.
A long fly off Piet's bat enabled Suhr to score the run that won, 3 to 2, in the 13th inning for the Pirates over the Phillies. Heinie Meine chalked his 19th victory, putting him at the top of National circuit hurlers.

Errors caused Milton Gaston to get into trouble in the ninth inning and St. Louis hitters ganged up to score five runs, winning over the uddly hose of Boston, 5 to 2. Blaeholder held the Hose to nine clouts. Others idled it.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

In winning the 3 year old classic event at Lexington yesterday, Protector not only lowered the world's record for 3 year old trotters to 1:59 1-4 but also trotted the fastest two heat race on record by a trotter of any age. The first heat was trotted in 2:01 1-2. The time lowered the 2:00 and 2:01 1-4 by Hanover's Bertha last year. Protector is owned by Ralph Keller, Auburn and was driven by Will Caton. A secondary feature was the Ashland stake, won by Tronia Britton, in 2:02 1-2 and 2:01 3-4. The three heats constitute a new world's record for a race of that length. The good Syracuse, N. Y. trotter, Young Senator, won the opening race, making a new record of 2:02 1-2 in the opening heat.

Joe Sekyra of Dayton came close to turning in one of the most surprising upsets in boxing history last night when he held Tommy Loughran to a close 10 round decision before 15,000 spectators in New York. We wrote yesterday that Sekyra would furnish plenty of trouble for Tommy, which he did. He went into the ring a 5 to 1 underdog in the betting and until the final round held Loughran on even terms. In fact, according to reports, he had a big advantage throughout the early rounds of the fight and some thought the Bohemian had won. Referee Arthur Donovan called the bout a draw but was outvoted by Judges Charles Mathison and Marty Monroe who voted for Loughran. Although the decision was hooted it appeared fair according to reports as Charley Retzlaff added a technical knockout to his list when he beat Dick Onken in two rounds.

Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia and most of her leading rivals marching to the second round of match play for the women's national golf championship under way at Buffalo. Only one outstanding contender, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, was eliminated yesterday. Mrs. Hill, touted before the championship opened as one of the most formidable obstacles in the path of Mrs. Vare's march to her sixth national title, fell before the accurate young Jane Brooks of New York, N. Y. 2 and 1. Mrs. Vare had no difficulty with Jean Armstrong of Chicago. She won six and four. It was the first time Miss Armstrong participated for a championship.

Billy White has been signed to box Marshall Cuvette in a four rounder here Monday night. Ernie Schnaf is favored to beat Tuffy Griffiths when they clash tonight in Chicago. Fritz Stiefel beat Mrs. Harley Hieble of Detroit in the first round for the women's national title, 1 up, 1 down. Dizzy Dean has been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals after a sojourn in the Texas league.

YOUR CAR IS A NECESSITY— BUT YOU CAN'T AFFORD A POOR ONE

These are times when every cent in every dollar counts. People generally are insisting on real value in necessities. Manufacturers are striving with all the energy and genius at their command to give higher and even higher values. The last year has seen a decrease in prices and an increase in quality unprecedented in automotive history.

Consequently, it behooves you as a thrifty person to investigate what the motor car market offers. Check up and see whether you can afford to "make the old car do" any longer. In view of present price and value standards, you may find that it is false economy.

We would like to show you a De Soto Six as an outstanding example of the progress that has been made to meet today's demand for values. More than two-score important improvements have been added to this car in the present year, despite the fact that it was the value leader in its price-class from the start. And the present De Soto Six is by many dollars the lowest-priced car ever to bear this name—the lowest-priced six ever sponsored by Chrysler Motors.

Come in today and let us demonstrate what De Soto's perfected Free Wheeling and Easy-Shift transmission with Silent Second have contributed to the already famous De Soto's performance. Let us appraise your old car and show you how very little more it takes to own a De Soto Six. It may mean the difference between true economy and the gross extravagance of maintaining an obsolete car.

Remember, your motor car is a necessity not a luxury—you can't afford anything but a good one.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks Forge Ahead Several Points Today

By W. S. COUSINS

International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Soaring prices for the leading Railroad and Industrial stocks on the big board today reflected a widespread feeling that the turn in the Industrial tide had arrived.

Over-night gains of 1 to 4 points were extended to a maximum of 12½ points in the early afternoon as buying demands of speculative and investment sources remained unsatisfied. The strength of the market today was emphasized by the fact that all restrictions on short selling had been removed, and the London market re-opened after a two-days' shut down. Free to follow their own course, the professionals bought stocks instead of dumping them on the market as in recent weeks.

A better outlook for the railroad companies was reflected in a broad buying demand for the leading rail dividend-payers at swiftly mounting prices. Union Pacific jumped 12½ points to 128. Atchafalpa, which has been under heavy pressure of late, moved ahead 10 points to 124. New York Central was up 6 points at 96 7/8 and New Haven up 5½ at 45½.

In one of the most spectacular up-rushes of the month, New gains of 1 to 4 points were recorded in Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Baltimore and Ohio and Great Northern.

Though unwelcome to those who receive them, wage cuts mean a larger net income for the corporations and lower production costs. The threat of reductions in many industries has been over-hanging the market for two or three months, and this has finally been removed.

Sweeping advances were recorded in the early afternoon in stocks which have been severely pounded by the big bears in the last few weeks. American Tel. and Tel. which sold yesterday at 135 1/4, showed a net gain of more than 10 points at 145 1/2. Compared with yesterday's close, U. S. Steel was up 4 points, at 84. Auburn Auto jumped 8 points to 128. Houston Oil was up 4 1/2 at 31; Westinghouse up 3 1/2 at 51 1/2; J. I. Case up 3 1/2 at 49; Consolidated Gas up 5 at 73 1/2; Columbia Gas up 2 7/8 at 23; General Electric up 3 1/4 at 33 7/8; Public Service of New Jersey up 6 points; Southern Railway up 4.

Reports that a $25,000,000 bankers' pool had been formed to "support the bond market" resulted in a rush to buy the leading railroad bonds which have been in the dumps for a considerable period. Recoveries of 1 to 8 points were recorded in a long list of rail bonds.

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Stocks forced ahead brilliantly in the first hour today, scoring net gains of 1 to 5 points in the speculative favorites.

Official announcements of the 10 per cent wage cuts by United States Steel Corporation and other well known companies removed an uncertain factor that has been "hanging over the market" for more than a month. Wall Street figured that lower production costs means larger earnings for the corporations and a turning in the tide of the long depression in industry. The savings to the Steel Corporation was estimated at from one to three dollars a share on the common stocks.

Re-opening of the London stock exchange under confident conditions in English trade and finance helped to create a better feeling in the financial district. The stock exchange authorities removed the ban on short selling, but the bears were more intent on saving themselves by covering up shorts than on extending short sales. London cables reported a heavy short interest in U. S. Steel and other American stocks in the British market.

Improvement extended to the bond market and the Cotton market.

British government 5½s of 1937, which sold this week as low as 92, changed hands today at 99. German government bonds were quiet. Cotton advanced in the maximum of 25 points, equivalent to $125 a bale, on the theory that the road had been opened for an increase in British buying of the Southern Staple. The early advances in the favorites were well retained in the second hour. After a profit-taking dip in the leaders, the market forged ahead to new high levels on the move, with United States Steel, American Can, General Electric and other favorites leading the way upward. Railroad bonds rallied 1 to 6 points in this period.

Dark Velvet and Ostrich Plume Factors in New Autumn Fashions

The Renaissance of Real Millinery That Had Its Start Early This Year Will Be Continued This Fall With Velvet the Favorite Medium. Brims Will Outdo Berets and Turbans in Popularity.

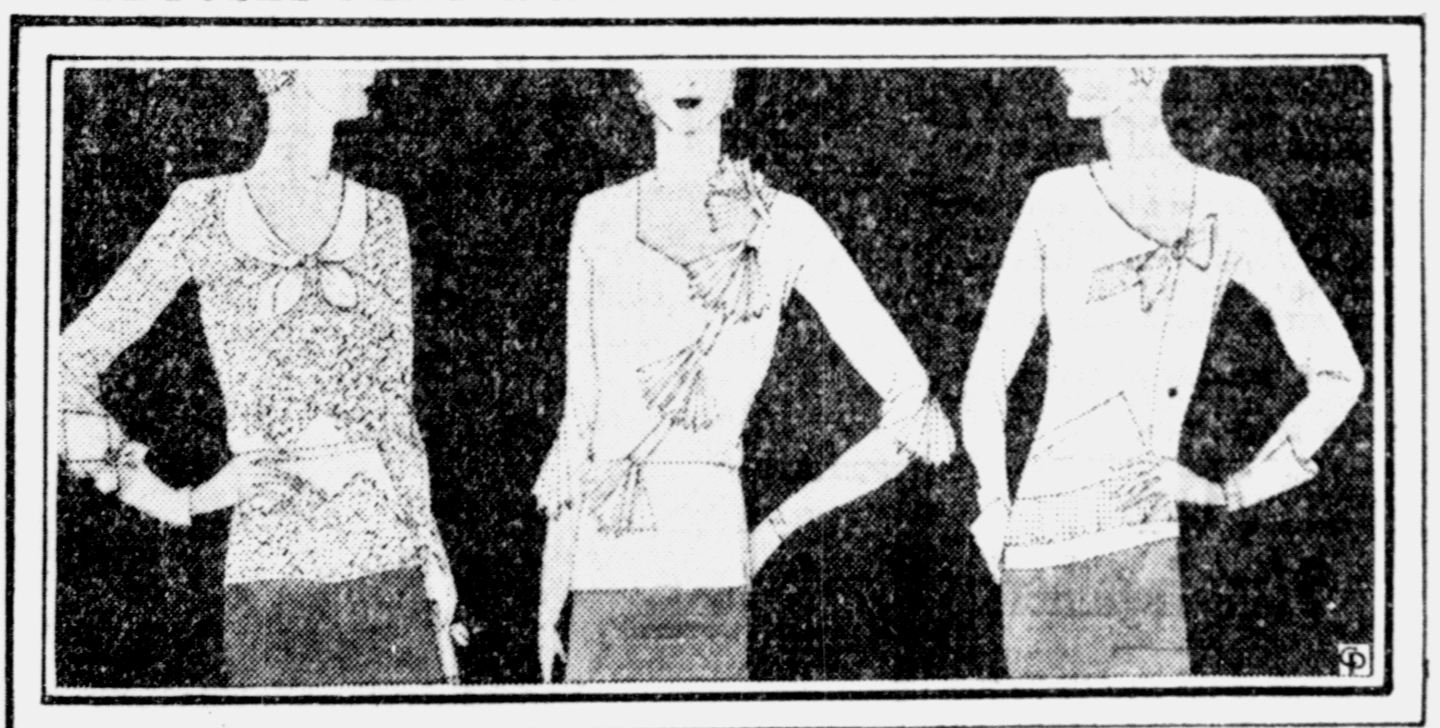

The Autumn fashions for millinery and dresses constitute a great triumph for velvet. Not only in America is the popular evening frock, above all, a Parisian model of dark transparent velvet. It is fashioned on graceful form-fitting lines, opening to a wide flair at the skirts. The coat dress at right is also a Paris creation, with dark velvet again the medium. This model has a detachable collar, the removal of which transforms the coat into a dress. Upper center is a typical example of the Autumn style in millinery. It is an American creation of black velvet, simply trimmed with a white feather in the new headline brim. The lower model is of felt, featuring the white ostrich spray. The addition of a necklace of black and white beads greatly enhances the charm of the hat.

Where Crash of Hall Plane Killed Two

A few moments after taking off from the Floyd Bennett Airport, the plane Crusader, in which James Goodwin Hall and Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank, New York, and Deputy Commissioner of Docks in Charge of Aviation, were flying to the American Legion convention at Detroit, crashed into a bungalow on Staten Island. Brady was killed, as was Mrs. Torriti Marchesi, 60, who lived in the wrecked bungalow, and Hall was slightly injured. Photo shows all that remained of the plane after the crash and ensuing fire. Inset shows Hall (left) jokingly adjusting the parachute on Brady just before the take-off.

BLOUSES PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN NEW MODE

His new tunic blouses are simple but feminine and end in the neighborhood of the knee. Gain Confidence In Your Putts, You'll Improve

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is final Grove golf article for this season.

NUMBER 74
You may contend you cannot putt with the stance closed or the feet close together. That is because you have not tried it, or you may have tried it and failed and then lost confidence in the stroke.

Putting is a matter of confidence and comfort.

Walter Hagen feels comfortable with the feet apart, while Bobby Jones would like to have them close together.

There was a day when Jones tried to copy Hagen's putting style, for a whole season or more, but found it was not adaptable to his general scheme of golf.

The build of a person has nothing to do with the stroke. To get the left eye over the ball and the control of the wrists, as shown in the illustration, is the foundation of a perfect golfing stroke.

British Stocks Climb Today As Markets Reopen

Prices Of Leading British Stocks Rise Sharply As Exchange Is Reopened

(International News Service) LONDON, Sept. 23.—Approaching a level corresponding with foreign quotations following the depreciation of the pound value, prices of leading British stocks rose sharply today as the London stock exchange opened for the first time this week. Government bonds suffered, however, the war loan selling at 94 pounds, compared with 97½ on Saturday, while Consol Fours, which sold at 85 on Saturday, dropped to 80, but later sold at 82.

Attorney Testifies In Suit At Beaver

Attorney Testifies To Having Tried To Effect Settlement Of $100,000 Swindle

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 23.—Attorney Thompson Bradshaw, counsel for Mrs. Jean P. Dawson and Mrs. Vye S. Thompson who claim H. Clay

Sexton, certified public accountant, swindled them out of almost $100,000 in securities, today testified that he had attempted to effect a settlement between Mrs. Dawson and Sexton before the latter's arrest. He told the court that following Sexton's arrest, the accountant turned over to Mrs. Dawson about $20,000 in stocks and bonds, a check for $500 interest and a lot of stocks which he termed "cats and dogs." Bradshaw offered two statements purported to have been made by Sexton with reference to the stock deals but they were not read into the record.

Attorney Homer N. Sweeney of Beaver Falls, testified concerning the transfer of a Patterson Heights property to Sexton and his wife which two years later was deeded by the defendant to Mrs. Thompson.

"SOMETHING TELLS ME" That every boss has at least one person in his employ who thinks he would run the business a whole lot better.

That occasionally we read of a merchant prince who has a princess that has his wife never knew about. That in autumn trees shed their adornment and the man takes on more.

That labor is man's means to an end and the lack of it sometimes means the end.

That the silent person is more often credited with being intelligent than the talkative person.

Salvation Army Plans To Carry On Work As Before

Will Conduct Its Own Campaign For Funds In This Community

At a meeting of the Advisory Board of the local corps of the Salvation Army held in the hall, 34 West Washington street, and at which there were representatives of the Wm. A. R. Eastern Star and Business and Professional Women's Club as well as division officers from Pittsburgh, it was decided that the army would continue to carry on its work here, although not carried in the budget of the Community Chest because of the fact that it was deemed a religious rather than a purely philanthropic organization, such as the other organizations participating. A drive is planned early in November to secure funds with which to carry on the large welfare work that the army has been conducting here in recent years. Plans for the same are now being made. The emergency existing this year makes it necessary for the Army to make a special effort this year.

William M. White, chairman of the advisory board, presided. Lt. Col. C. B. Campbell of Pittsburgh, in charge of the Western Pennsylvania Division, spoke on the situation that had developed here, stating that the unusual had occurred here with regard to the Community Chest, as in most communities, the Community Chests were increasing the allotments of the Army on account of the greater demand expected this winter. He said, however, that the army surely had many friends here, who would help in carrying on its work.

Adjutant W. B. Wolfe, special district secretary of the Pittsburgh district, spoke on the fact that the local corps had gone into the Community Chest when first organized because of its belief in the slogan "one for all and all for one" of the chest and had thrown its goodwill, name and lists of donors into the common cause. In the past year, he said, the overhead of salaries in the organization had been but $900 and with this small overhead as compared with the work done by the organization, that it was anticipated that the friends of the Army in the community would rally to its aid in its time of need, now that it has been placed outside the Community Chest.

He submitted figures showing the evangelistic and relief work done by the Army in the twelve months ending July 1931, which included in the evangelistic work—123 converts, open air meetings held 101, attendance at the same 12,437, 101 services, 262, attendance 5320; young people's services 155, attendance at the same 3574.

In the relief department, furniture was given in 118 cases, garments in 5420 cases, shoes, second hand and new, 715 pairs, medical aid—5 cases; maternity cases sent to Pittsburgh 8; families aided about 850 numbering 33,060 individuals. Christmas hampers to the number of 171 were given out, meals furnished to 6221 transients, beds to 2838 transients.

J. K. McQuiddy of the Building Trades Council and Trades and Labor Assembly Committee on Unemployment and Relief, spoke of the work of the Mayor's Relief Committee and the Potter Plan adopted for aiding the needy here. He commended the Salvation Army and stated that organized labor was its friend.

The advisory board took the following action relative to the need of the army: "Whereas, The Salvation Army Advisory Board of New Castle having considered the valuable work of the Salvation Army now being done in our community and county, and Whereas, the Community Chest has deemed it expedient to exclude the Salvation Army because of the inability to raise sufficient funds for its support; be it resolved that we the advisory board of the Salvation Army of New Castle and Lawrence county convey our appreciation to the Community Chest for their service and to ask our fellow citizens to aid the Salvation Army individually in order that it may continue to carry on its work of love and mercy, both religiously and philanthropically in the future."

Before the close of the meeting Chairman William M. White was authorized to appoint a committee to act with Ensign V. Thomsen, officer in charge in the formulating of a plan to seek funds in November.

Find Tropical Spot In Arctic

Philadelphia Explorers Back From Trip To Remote Regions

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 23.—Back from a 1,000-mile trip to the mystery spot of Northern British Columbia, Dr. J. Norman Henry and party of Philadelphia told today of having explored the tropical valley, report of which had lured the party to the remote region.

Any beliefs that the "tropical valley" was mythical were exploded by Dr. Henry, a retired Philadelphia doctor and former college mate of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways. For two days the party camped in the valley and experienced its tropical delights, he said. They found it was three-quarters of a mile in length and honeycombed with hot springs. They bathed in the craters and springs and found in some spots the water was too hot for human beings to stand.

Ground Heated by Springs
"There were boiling springs all through the valley," Dr. Henry said. "Even the ground was heated in many spots and we were told by Indians that during a temperature of 50 below zero water does not freeze in the valley."
Despite a bad fire, which had swept through the valley and destroyed much of the plant life, some good specimens for botanical purposes were obtained.

The valley was located in the mountains near the junction of the Racing and Toad rivers, about 400 miles northwest of Fort St. John. An Indian guide, Charlie McDonald, member of the Grand Lake tribe, was credited by Dr. Henry with leading the party to the tropical valley. Had it not been for this Indian, who lives in the northern district, the valley might not have been found, he said.

The party left here for the North on June 29. It returned Saturday.

Approximately 40 women members of the aid society are expected to carry on the work this afternoon, all day Thursday and Friday. Fruits and vegetables will be canned and distributed to the needy furloughed employees of the division.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 23.—Enrollment in city schools has increased 747 over last year, Superintendent G. E. Roudabush reported to school board members last night when he said that the enrollment to date is 34,857, as compared to 34,110 the opening week last year.

The opening of the school year, the superintendent said, citing 34,575 as the enrollment on opening day. The increase is distributed through the system and is causing no serious congestion at any one school, Roudabush said.

The average teacher load in the grade schools is 38, over 50 per cent of the classes being within the range of 35 to 40. The smallest class room has 17 pupils, the largest 49.

Five Arrested At "Wildcat" Brewery Near Middletown

Four Large Vats And Vast Quantity Of Beer Making Equipment Is Seized

(International News Service)
MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Sept. 23.—Five persons were held by state police today following a surprise raid last night on a large "wildcat" brewery in the rear of a roadside house near here. The plant, containing four vats of 1,000 gallons capacity and a quantity of beer-making equipment, was valued at $8,000.

Capital Minimizes Action By Britain

U. S. Seen Not Seriously Affected By Suspension Of The Gold Standard

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Government officials pointed today to the normal transaction of business by the principal stock exchanges and banks of the United States as an indication that the temporary suspension by Great Britain of the gold standard would not seriously affect the United States.

They expressed the opinion that Great Britain would work out her problems successfully if given time and the necessary co-operation. They said the temporary abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain should not be regarded too seriously because in the last 17 years that nation has been on the gold standard only six years.

No Brake on Business
During the time she was not on a gold standard they pointed out that huge amounts of business was transacted between the United States and Great Britain without detriment to this country.

It was said the action of the British, coming after a long period of depression and decline in commodity and security prices, made the situation in England and the world less vulnerable than if the same action had been taken in times of general prosperity.

Officials did not see anything that the United States would be called upon to do and felt that should any further credits be needed by the British that they could be arranged with member banks of the Federal Reserve System without involving the government.

Hoover Regrets Steel Wage Cut

White House Disappointed, But Doubts If General Slash Will Follow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Word of the action of the United States Steel Corporation to reduce wages approximately 10 per cent came as a disappointment to the administration.

While President Hoover was informed of the development, there was no comment at the White House, but expressions of others in the administration indicated that the news was received with regret by the president and his associates. What was regarded as the administration point of view was expressed by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, who in voicing regret that the Steel Corporation "found it necessary to make a wage cut," asserted that in spite of this action, there was no change in the administration's attitude of opposition to wage reductions.

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont would not comment beyond expressing regret. Administration officials were hopeful when they first heard of the United States Steel cut that it would not be followed by a general wage cutting movement, although it was recognized there might be an adverse effect by the fostering of a belief among other and smaller industries that the reduction would give an advantage to the Steel Corporation.

The action of the United States Steel bears upon what President Hoover regarded as the second most important factor in restoration of confidence. He placed maintenance of wages second only after the sustaining influence of the Federal Reserve System.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

"When you are mentioning some old time sectional names," queries one avid reader, why the heck don't you mention them all. With which he proceeds to ask why we didn't say something about Mullentown, Reynoldstown, Croton, Clifton Flats and Sheep Hill the other day.

No offense, pardner, just didn't get them all in. Johnny Newell lingers with one that may be new to you. Johnny wants to know if you know where Vinegar Hill used to be or still is for that matter.

Seems that it is located up around Oak street and why they call it Vinegar Hill is something else again. Perhaps somebody used to raise vinegar vines up there or had a barrel of apple cider go sour.

We used to wonder why Sheep Hill had such a name but that was explained years ago. Seems there was a gentleman who had a weakness for sheep, other people's sheep and now then used to wander off with a flock of them under his arm.

One Sunday morning he got away with a flock of sheep down in the south end and took them up over the Jefferson street hill. Getting them back in the wilder part of the area he slaughtered all the sheep, and from that time on it was known as Sheep Hill.

One of the lads who runs a bank for a living in New Castle wants to know when the straw hat season is over. At far as we know it finishes on September 15, but as long as the weatherman insists upon holding the weather at the middle of August, there's a lot of mileage left in the old leghorn yet.

Nobody knows who sets the opening and closing dates for straw hats, but they happen to be May 15 and September 15. Taking these dates into consideration the makers try to build them so they will last just about that long, but the maker of the one we have added a month or two extra.

The latest thing in fall fells for men seems to be a copy of the Prince of Wales. Sort of a male Genie or a Napoleon the Third. Narrow brims that curl up this in order to distinguish them from last year's models. It would never do to wear last year's hat.

Business seems to be picking up in some quarters. Butter is back to forty cents a pound.

Dropped in at the West Side school yesterday afternoon and the youngsters had a show worth seeing. Flowers, fruits and vegetables they had raised, on exhibition in the lobby of the school, and the whole thing would have done a fair credit.

The idea of the exhibition was to tie up art and industry, with the colors of the various flowers being worked out in combinations for the table and the home. The arty idea even ran over into the vegetable department and some of the baskets with colored vegetables arranged in them looked like fruit baskets in a ritzy market.

Haven't been around to the schools where the canning is going on fearing they might want to give me a job peeling peaches. No dead-heads seems to be the rule, and everybody who goes around to visit reruns to work.

Lancaster Cigar Store Is Robbed

(International News Service)
LANCASTER, Sept. 23.—Burglars who ransacked the cigar store of C. W. Wertz here added insult to injury.

"If this gives you a headache, take some of your aspirin" read a note found by Wertz on the counter as he opened the shop to find it rifled of stock worth several hundred dollars.

Several packages of aspirin taken from a case were left on the counter by the note.
